Too many apartments called bad for village

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Changes are coming in the Antioch zoning ordinance. The three-year undertaking will be completed in about four months, says Village Atty. Kenneth Clark.

At least two major changes could affect builders and owners of apartments.

Both are being pushed by Trustee Donald Amundsen, a 15-year veteran of the village board.

First, he doesn't think apartments should be built over commercial buildings, especially service stations and liquor stores or taverns. The existing code allows this. "We also could have a commercial building with stores on the lower level and 12 to 13 apartments above," he said.

Trustee Marilyn Shneflug, who is involved in the zoning code update, isn't saying how Amundsen's concern is treated in the revision. The code is in its third draft.

Not affected, she said, are apartments in the one-half mile downtown area. Existing apartments above these stores and businesses will be encouraged.

"Studies show this kind of occupancy helps with the stability of downtown," she said. Not only do such living quarters bring people downtown, it keeps them there. Rents building owners receive help offset other building costs, reducing street-level square-foot costs. This results in fewer vacancies, she said.

Another change Amundsen would like to see is reducing the density for apartments from 2,500 for one unit to 3,600 square feet. The current code allows up to 20 units per acre. The number would drop to 12 under Amundsen's proposal.

"This was an election issue three years ago," he said when Mayor Robert Wilton and trustees Larry Hanson and Shneflug were added to the board.

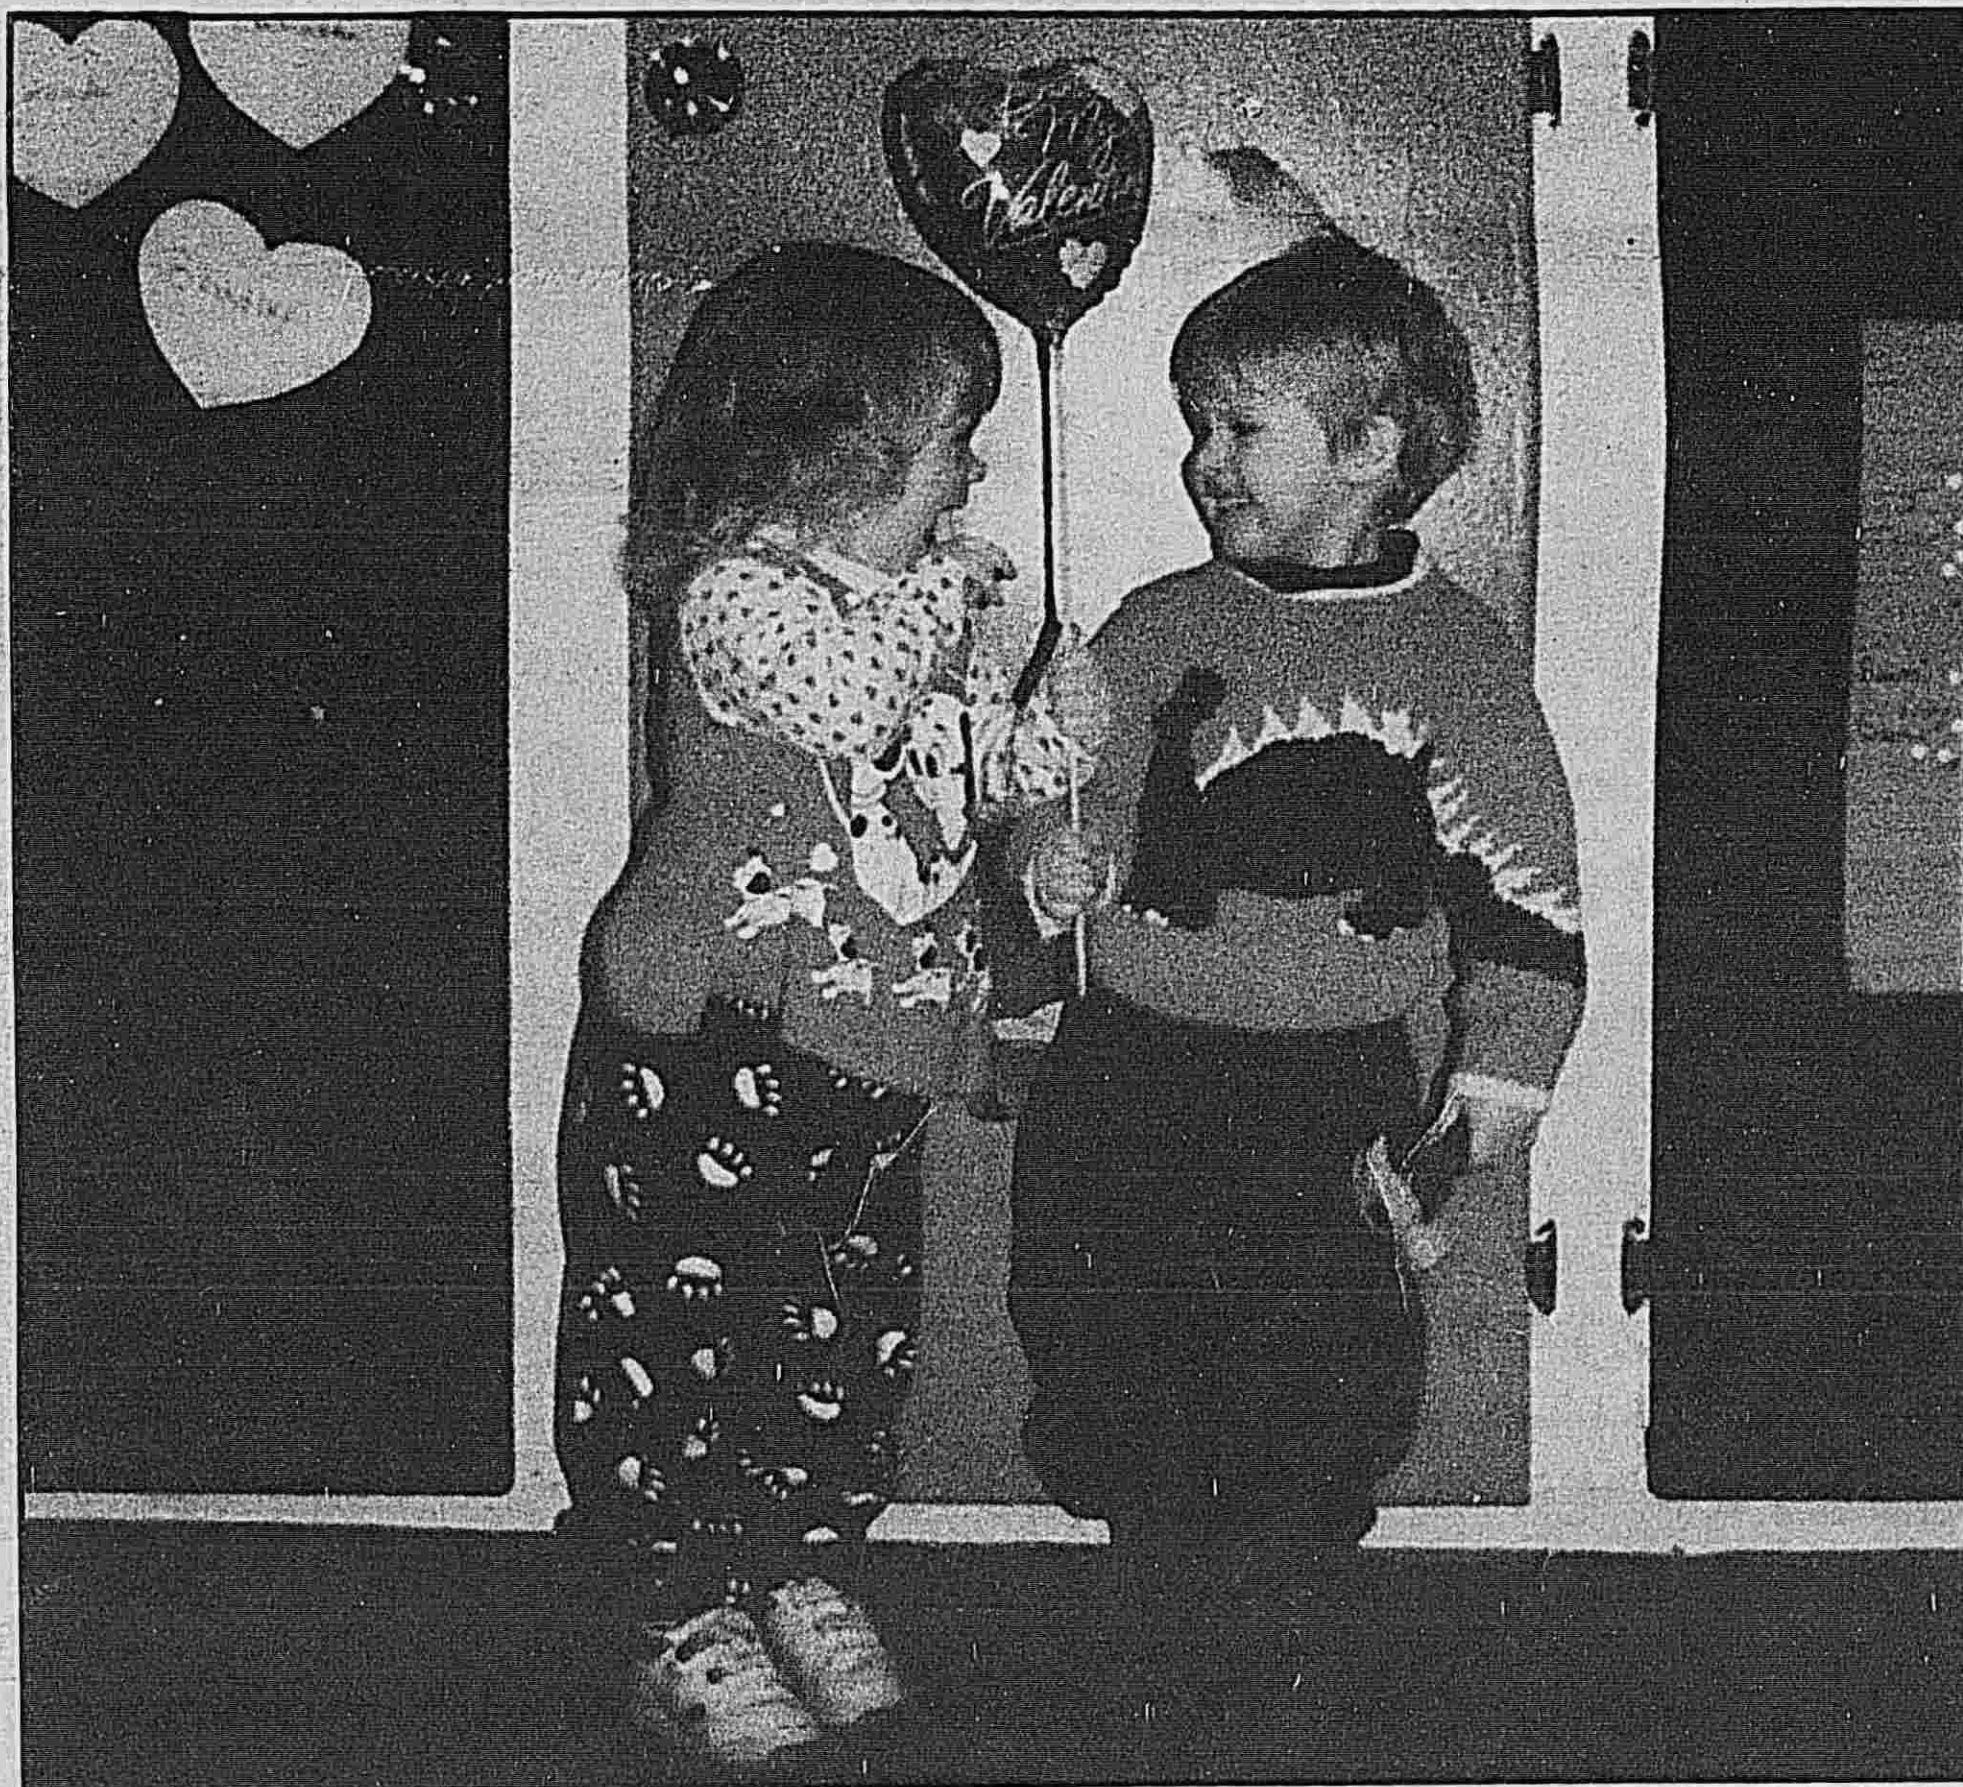

Residents were concerned about the new apartment complex on Anita St. and the soon-to-be built one in Antioch Manor North. "The feeling three years ago is that the village has too many apartments with high densities," Amundsen said. "I still believe the people feel that way."

The Antioch trustee advances this proposal annually. It got nowhere until an early February meeting. The village board reluctantly agreed to include his suggestions in final deliberations on zoning code changes.

"I'm 57 years old," the veteran trustee said. "I realize I may not live forever. That's why I am trying again," he said of the three years the revision has been underway. "It's time to quit talking and do something."

Amundsen agrees his proposal to reduce apartment density may not win great favor among some trustees and developers, but he is firmly convinced it will benefit Antioch of the future.

Depke, Behr meet in first board debate

GURNEE—First in a series of debates for County Board candidates running in the March 17 primary will be Wednesday, Feb. 19. It will be at the Warren-Newport Twp. Library, 224 N. O'Plaine Rd., from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Candidates on the forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters are incumbent Robert Depke and challenger Richard Behr. Debates will be held in all of the 23 board districts where there are contests through Wednesday, March 11.

Lincolnshire gets $3.6 mil for hall

LINCOLNSHIRE—The Village of Lincolnshire received a below market rate interest rate loan for $3.6 million for construction of a new Administrative and Public Safety Center for the village, Feb. 11. The check was presented to Lincolnshire Mayor Barbara LaPiana by bank president Saul Binder. The new village building is expected to be completed in early 1993. The below market interest rate was provided by the bank as a public service to the village. The agreement is for interest rates of 6.125 percent for five years of the loan and 6.5 percent for the remaining ten years. The new building will take the village into the 21st Century according to LaPiana.

Residents to make final stand on tower

LAKE ZURICH—Maps and charts can explain facts and figures but not necessarily answer all the questions, including the value of aesthetics. That's the consensus of residents that attended Tuesday's special meeting of the Lake Zurich Board of Trustees. That meeting provided residents an opportunity to find out the facts used by the board in reaching a decision last fall to site a water tower in Paulus Park. The water tower is needed to increase water supplies and water pressure on the village's northwest side. The meeting came after an ordinance granting site plan appearance to the water tower was approved by the village board in a 4-2 vote, Feb. 3. That vote was vetoed by Mayor James Kay, which means that the board will vote on the measure again at their next meeting, Feb. 18. Residents vow to make one final stand to fight the placement of the tower in the village's biggest and most-used park at that meeting.

Water agency will start director hunt

LAKE BLUFF—Mayor Stephen Graf, who serves as chairman of the Central Lake County Joint Action Water Agency, has been named temporary executive director to succeed the late Paul Neal, who died Jan. 22. Discussion of a search for a new director will be among the topics at the board's Wednesday, Feb. 22, meeting. Administrative Assistant Melanie Van Heirsele, who is handling the day-to-day operations, estimated it will be two or three months before a new director is hired. The agency will begin providing Lake Michigan water to 13 Lake County communities in May as part of a $100 million public works project, the largest in Lake County history.

Gun control law quickly shot down

VERNON HILLS—An ordinance requiring owners of firearms to take a five-hour safety course and obtain a permit has been rejected by the village board. Violators would have been subject to a $50 to $500 per day fine. Gun owners besieged trustees with objections following an earlier 4-2 vote for consideration. Objectors, many of them National Rifle Association members, thronged a Feb. 10 village board meeting at which trustees failed to second a motion for passage. Instead, a voluntary safety course will be implemented. The ordinance is being pushed by Mayor Barbara Williams in the wake of last October's shooting deaths of two Libertyville High School students, one of them from Vernon Hills.

Saturday is last day to register

LAKE COUNTY—Special voter registration hours will be offered this weekend by villages, townships and groups such as the League of Women Voters. This is a countywide effort to sign up voters for the Tuesday, March 17 primary. Last day to register is Tuesday, Feb. 18. Persons not registered cannot vote in the primary. Registrants must provide two proofs of their current address; i.e. utility bills, imprinted check, rent receipt, etc. They also must have lived at their current address for 30 days and be 18 years of age. For the location and hours of the nearest place to register, call the Lake County Clerk's office at (708)360-3610.

Winners named in Chain fishing derby

CHAIN O'LAKES—The 32nd Annual Chain O' Lakes Ice Fishing Derby sponsored by the Northern Illinois Conservation Club had a smaller turnout than usual due to a perception that the ice wasn't thick enough. However, the event was supported by many local fishermen who had a good time despite the cold temperatures. There were winners in 10 species categories for both largest and smallest. The winners were: Muskie—large and small, 32.6-inches, James Bridges of Momence; Northern Pike—large, 31.6 inches, Bob Buenzli of McHenry and small, 25-inches, Tom Krueger of Antioch; Walleye—large and small, 17-inches, Dan Hucker of Antioch; Largemouth Bass—large, 19.8-inches, Robert E. Lemke, Antioch and small, 16.2-inches, T.J. Foss, Wonder Lake; Catfish—large, 24.5-inches, Dan Hucker and small, 4-inches, Dan Duffy of McHenry; Croppie—large, 14.5-inches, John Medvd, Mundelein and small, 4.9-inches, Ernie Slauik, Antioch; Striped Bass—large, 12.75-inches, Alan Cook, Chicago and small, 3.6-inches, Keith Rogalski of Elgin; Perch—large, 10.8-inches, Anthony W. Geske of Gurnee and small, 3.3-inches, Derrick Brown of Berkeley; Bullhead—large, 13.8-inches, John Ketjen of Union and small, 2.3-inches, Patty Radtke of Trevor, Wis; Bluegill—large, 8.75 inches, Bill Brown of Round Lake Park and small, 2.5-inches, Mark Manisco of Bloomingdale. Winner of the grand prize raffle, a trip to Reno, Nevada, was Chris Larson of Mt. Prospect.

Doctors sued over death of Dan Dreyer

LAKE VILLA—Three doctors and Primary Health Care Family Center with offices in Antioch in Libertyville, are being sued by the estate of Daniel M. Dreyer, 43, for failure to diagnose heart disease leading to his death on Feb. 20, 1991. The lawsuit said he was being treated for elevated blood pressure. Dreyer owned Awards by Kaydan of Antioch and was a member of the Lake Villa School board for 2-1/2 years until his death. Waukegan Atty. Patrick Salvi, who is representing the family, said an undetermined amount of money will be sought.

Kempf resigns water agency post

FOX LAKE—Charles Kempf has resigned from the Chain O'Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency board of directors. Kempf, who leaves with two years remaining in his second four-year term, cited the time demands of his Lake Petite resort as the reason for his resignation.

Firefighters go after better rating

FOX LAKE—Homeowners and businesses here are already enjoying the benefits of having a well-oiled fire-protection machine at the ready. To top that, the Fox Lake Fire Protection District and the Fox Lake Fire Department are going after a better insurance rating, which would translate into more money saved by homeowners and businesses. The fire-fighting groups are currently meeting with officials from the Insurance Services Office (ISO), which sets the ratings individual insurance companies use when determining premiums.

Man dies following accident at Wilmot

WILMOT—A 30-year-old Illinois man died Feb. 10 following an accident at the Wilmot Mountain skiing center when he struck a lift support. Identification was pending notification of the next of kin. The victim was taken to a Kenosha hospital by the Salem Rescue Squad for an accident injury and died. This follows by two weeks the death of a girl in her late teens after a skiing accident.

Your best defense against a heart attack is a great offense

LAKE VILLA AND WAUKEGAN

Heart disease is a tough competitor. Every 32 seconds it claims another life—making it the number one cause of death in America.

Fortunately, you have a good defense against a heart attack: prevention through early detection. That's why, as a special service to this community, the Heart Center of Lake County located at Saint Therese-Medical Center is offering a heart screening for $39. Designed to identify your cardiac risk factors, this screening includes:

- Heart Fitness Test
- HDL and LDL cholesterol
- Total cholesterol/HDL ratio
- Total blood cholesterol
- Blood pressure
- Triglyceride level
- Cardiac risk factor analysis

You see it's important to know the condition of your heart, especially if you have a family history of heart disease. By having this screening, you're taking an important step towards finding out just how healthy your heart really is. To make an appointment or for more information, please call (708) 360-2772.

League bowlers to bowl for kids' sake

League bowlers can make a difference in the life of a child from a single parent home by participating in Bowl For Kids' Sake during their league play. By collecting sponsor donations from your friends and family and bowling on your regular bowling night, you can help a child in need who is waiting for a Big Brother or Big Sister.

The bowlathon runs through Mid-March at Antioch Lanes and Pro Shop, Lake's Bowl, Hawthorn Lanes, Bertrand Bowling Lanes, and Sunset Bowl.

Call (708)360-0770 for different bowling centers and sponsor sheets. Not a league bowler—be a Community Challenge Days bowler by forming a team with your friends. A pledge sheet totaling at least $50 is the only price of admission to bowl and party at one of the Community Challenge Days: March 8 at Hawthorn Lanes in Vernon Hills and Feb. 23 at Bertrand Bowling Lanes in Waukegan from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be raffle prizes, pizza and drinks for participants.

But wherever you choose to bowl, everyone raising $50 receives a T-shirt and an entry in the Grand Prize drawing for a cruise. For each additional $50 raised, bowlers receive another chance in the Grand Prize drawing. There will also be a prize for the most money raised American Airline tickets for two to anywhere in the continental United States.

The sole purpose of Bowl For Kids' Sake is to raise money to recruit, screen and train new Big Brothers, Big Sisters and couples to be matched with kids from single-parent homes needing a special friend.

Major sponsors for this year's event are IMC Fertilizer, Inc., U.S. Cable of Lake County, Allstate and American Airlines. The following supporters have already accepted the "challenge" and will be forming teams: IMC Fertilizer, Allstate, W.R. Grace Dearborn, First Midwest Bank, Wal-Mart, Exxon Chemical, Village of Antioch, Walgreens, OMC, Illinois Bell and MacLean Fogg.

Power-line foes ask politicians for help

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Two state legislators and several would-be legislators were asked this week for their help in stopping Commonwealth Edison from constructing a 138,000-volt power transmission line between Antioch and Lake Villa.

They were urged at a town meeting of the West Miltmore Community Assn. to enact a moratorium against such high-voltage power transmission lines.

Only state Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa) offered any help. He promised to introduce legislation to study the effects of electric magnetic field (EMF) emissions. "If the studies prove the things you people charge, then we can stop the construction of lines carrying this voltage," the 10-year legislator said.

Residents from Lake Villa to Loon Lake and Antioch organized as People and Citizens Together (PACT) oppose Com Ed's plans based on concerns for health, safety, aesthetics and property values. They say EMF causes cancer, causes leukemia in children age 1-5, causes birth deformities in pregnant women and a host of other maladies.

They admit EMF is a 15-20 year old problem and no one really knows its effect on humans. "It will take 10 to 20 years before the effect on humans is known," one member said at a Feb. 10 meeting of West Miltmore homeowners at the State Bank of Antioch in Lindenhurst. "I don't want to put my family at risk for that period of time."

Churchill said a matter of such concern may be resolved in one or two years. But he's willing to try.

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) said she spoke to Ronald Crawford, district manager for the Waukegan district of the Commonwealth Edison Co. "I told him to do this construction in the safest manner possible. If it costs $17-1/2 million, go ahead and spend it," I said.

To run the new line underground would cost up to $20-million, according to preliminary company estimates. Cost of keeping them above ground is $6.3 million. Putting part of the lines below ground near population centers such as Lake Villa and below ground in the unincorporated areas of Antioch and Lake Villa townships would cost about $10 million.

As now planned, the high-voltage lines would be buried one-fourth mile south of Pleviak School in Lake Villa, remain 5 to 6 feet underground through Lake Villa and resurface along the Wisconsin Central Railroad right of way north of Cedar Village retirement center. From there the lines would connect to a new substation on the west shore of Loon Lake annexed last year by the village of Antioch.

The new lines will serve a growing area of six-plus square miles. "This system will improve the quality and reliability of Com Ed's service," Geo-Karis said. "That may be important after years of overloads and outages."

"Antioch annexed the land when told by Com Ed there was no alternative," said Trustee Marilyn Shineflug, who attended the meeting. "We thought this was better than a possible alternative of three 45-kv lines. This gave us some control, but we didn't ask for the substation." Had Antioch not annexed the site it would have remained in unincorporated Antioch Twp. "That possibly would have meant even higher voltage lines," she said.

PACT members at the meeting called the lack of possible choices another of Com Ed's "lies." They agreed to the need for upgraded electrical service. They suggested Com Ed purchase a 500- or 1,000-foot right of way on which to construct the lines. Above or below ground, they said the effects of EMF are almost the same.

Barbara Oilschlager of Lake Villa, a candidate for the County Board, said she has "no problem with standing back and taking a look at this plan." She said help can be provided at various levels of state and local government, but she was not sure what the County Board could do.

Members of the audience disagreed with her, saying incumbent County Board member Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa has been extremely helpful. Schmidt did not attend. She was in California following the death of her vacationing father on Feb. 1.

Supv. James Fields of Antioch was mentioned as being unconcerned about the effects of the new line and EMF in his township, which includes Loon Lake.

Dennis Winn of Waukegan, a candidate for Geo-Karis' senate seat in the 31st Dist., said electric rates will increase with more conditions imposed on this project. "That is the price people may be willing to pay." He noted that Chicago-area electric rates are the second or third highest in the nation. "There is a lot of mismanagement at Com Ed that first has to be addressed," he said.

Waukegan Atty. Paul Chervin, a third senate candidate in the 31st Dist., called for the election of Illinois Commerce Commission members. "That would prevent this type of Com Ed ideas," he said. He also suggested forming a special service district to tax property within the immediate area to pay for the Com Ed plan. This idea was rejected because the electricity will serve customers in a wide area.

Now and then

St. Peter board petitions available

On April 30, three members of the school board (Adrienne Deitz, Ann Smith and Alberta Petrosko) will have completed their terms. St. Peter Parish consequently will vote for their replacements.

To provide for a smooth transition in selecting their replacements, the school board has developed and adopted the following procedures for nominating, qualifying and electing members of the parish school board. Terms are for a period of three years. Members may serve a maximum of two elected terms.

The election committee will be appointed annually by the school board chairman and will include ex-officio members of the board and board members.

The election will be held on April 26.

Voting will take place after each Mass (including the 5:30 p.m. Mass on April 25). All adult parishioners or parents of St. Peter School children are eligible to vote. Parish rolls will be used to determine voter eligibility. Election committee will be responsible to appoint election judges.

A simple majority will be sufficient to elect a member. In the event of a tie, a runoff election will be held on the following Sunday. Results of any runoff election will be announced on the Sunday after the runoff.

Election results will be published and announced on Sunday, May 3.

Elected members will be seated at the first regularly scheduled meeting after the election, i.e. in May.

Ballots will be made available in Fr. Frawley (church) Hall after each Mass.

Prospective members must qualify according to the school board requirements as follows: reside in the community for at least six months; be a parish member or parent of a St. Peter school child; and must be a minimum of 18 years old. No person employed by the school may serve on the board.

Candidates for board membership must submit their application petition signed by at least 10 parishioners or parents of St. Peter School children to the principal no later than 3 p.m. Tuesday, March 10.

Application petition forms will be available at the school office beginning Feb. 1. Names will appear of the ballot in the order petitions are filed.

The election committee will be responsible for certification of all applicants. The election committee will accept all application petitions. The election committee will determine eligibility and acceptance of candidates to the school board.

Announcement of qualifying candidates will be made at the regular school board meeting on March 12.

In the event a candidate does not qualify, he/she will be advised of the decision as well as the reason of his/her failure to obtain certification prior to March 12.

Any candidate will have the opportunity to question the election committee should he/she fail to obtain certification and present his/her case in favor of certification prior to March 12.

The election committee will be dissolved after completion of the election.

Bobby's balloon takes voyage to Michigan

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
Special voyage

On Jan. 11, little Bobby Klean, his big brother, Ricky, and big sister, Tracy, released a helium balloon from Antioch. Naturally they wondered how far it would travel and if anyone would ever discover where it had come from. They did not have to wait long for answers to these questions as a short time after releasing the balloon, they received a communique from a nice lady in Sparta, Mich. informing them she had found the balloon.

The very next day, on Jan. 12, Diane Sessions was taking her dog, Lucky for a walk. The Sessions live in Sparta in a fine home situated on six acres of land, bordering, 220 acres of other vacant properties. Lucky and his master were tramping through the thick underbrush and they noticed the balloon lodged on some shrubbery. Upon further investigation, they were astonished to discover it had reached them all the way from Antioch, many, many, many, miles away. Diane was so excited over this happening that she wrote little Bobby a note informing him when and how she found his well-traveled balloon. In turn, little Bobby was so excited to hear about the voyage of the balloon that his mom, Margie said he was left speechless (a real rarity for bubbly little Bob).

Emmons school

The following items were discussed or action taken at the Jan. 21 meeting of the Emmons Board of Education. The board accepted the resignation of Dr. Charles Stephens; the board heard an educational presentation on the Junior High Ace Program; policy no. 500.70 on Drug and Alcohol Free Workplace was adopted; projected enrollment figures were discussed; the board received an up date from the Steering Committee; board approved the 1992 Assurances and School Improvement Plan; March 2 was set to discuss board self-evaluation; the board appointed Eder, Riedel and Company for auditors for the next three years; set a date of Feb. 17 to interview candidates for the board vacancy.

Also Emmons School will once again participate in the Jump Rope for Heart Program sponsored by the American Heart Assn. Kevin Butler of the Chicago Bears is the spokesman for this program and is scheduled to visit Emmons School sometime this month.

Belated Birthday

Little Brittany Harrison turned seven years on Feb. 3. In celebration of her special day, Brittany received a shiny new bicycle, an outing to see the movie "Beauty and the Beast" and a fun bowling excursion. Happy belated seventh from Lizard and readers.

Centennial Invitation

In late June, Antioch will be having a Centennial Celebration Parade. The communities surrounding the Village proper have been invited to participate in the parade. As you know, there is a lot of fine history in the Grass Lake area of Antioch. Wouldn't it be wonderful to participate in the parade with a float showing the past and present histories that are abundant in the Grass Lake Community?

Hometown Goodies

All that is needed to make this a reality is one or two chairpeople willing to spearhead the function. If you are interested in serving the Grass Lake Community in this manner, please contact Grass Lake School and they will put you in touch with John Ruffin, the parade coordinator, and also provide you with the name of an individual who is willing to help in the planning. The number at the school is (708)395-1550. You can ask to talk with Supt. Dr. Ruth Bill, or Principal Raymond Liss.

Chess Club

Once again Dave Tomei, the Grass Lake School chess coach, will be taking his top 17 chess players to a tournament in Aurora. The event will be held on Feb. 15 at Holy Angels School. Coach Tomei anticipates a strong showing as the team has been working very hard during chess club meetings and practices. Perhaps they will bring back another trophy. Good Luck, people, and Coach Tomei, please don't forget to provide us with the results.

Lotus School

Lotus School recently conducted their first annual "Student Book Swap" and it was a hug success. Participating students brought in a book they had finished and no longer wanted the children and save money too. There was an awards assembly held at the school honoring the 48 students who made the "Principal's On-A-Roll" recognition for the second quarter grading period and 57 students who earned "A" and "B" academic achievements. Congratulations and keep up the good work.

Footsteps

Did you ever notice that those who claim to be your best friends will be the ones to razz you the most about the occasional bloopers you commit? Last year I wrote about Debbie Foerster's bingo blooper when she had overlooked a number that would have awarded her a good size jackpot. Recently, Debbie, her grandmother, Adeline Trout, friends Donna Schmehl and Dennis Bergl, went to play bingo. During the course of the evening, Donna took great joy in relating Debbie's former bingo blooper to grandma Trout and Dennis. She went on and on and on about how Debbie could have won "X" amount of dollars had she been more attentive to her bingo cards on that bingo excursion of the past. The picture frame game began, the pot was meaty, Donna was close, only two numbers to go and then only one. Her palms became sweaty, her heart pounded, as she anticipated victory. All that was needed was "O-65." A voice yelled "BINGO."

However, it was not Donna's and to make matters worse, a glance at the numbers board told her she could have won because "O-65" was in fact called several numbers prior to the lady yelling bingo. The realization of what happened hit her hard and fast. Oh no, I just razzed Debbie all evening about her pat mistake and now I committed the same blooper. Boy, am I in for it!! Naturally they will tell The Lizard, Naturally, I will be highlighted in "Hometown Goodies" and guess what, Donna naturally you were right!!!

Dinner Dance

The Annual Grass Lake School P.T.O. Dinner Dance will be held on Saturday, May 16, at Andres in Richmond. The chair people promise a fun evening for all and tickets will soon be on sale. As in the past, there will be a delicious dinner with dancing afterwards to the music of a DeeJay.

Athlete of the week

Tammy Peters (center) of Antioch Community High School placed 15th out of 150 bowlers at the Fenton Bowling Invitational. The First Chicago Bank of Antioch will make a donation to the high school scholarship fund in Peters' name. On the left is Coach Elliot Hoffeditz. Deborah Jackson (right) is presenting the check for First Chicago.

Woman's Club prepares for Centennial Ball

The Antioch Woman's Club is completing final preparations for the Centennial Ball celebrating the 100th Birthday of the Village of Antioch. The gala will be held at Maravella's in Fox Lake on Feb. 29—the actual date of the incorporation of the village. Co-chairpersons for the event are Linda Pedersen and Mabel Lou Weber.

Ticket Chairperson, Nancy Zitkus, and her committee of Laurel Dahl, Jean DeBoer, Sharon Oldenburger, Florence Pedersen, Nancy Preston, Nancy Rentner, Ann Simbrowski, Evelyn Skidmore and Dorothy Ware report invitations have been sent and additional tickets are available at the State Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Chicago, Antioch facility, and the Village Hall. Information on tickets and reservations is available from Nancy Zitkus at (708)395-1202.

Bernice Cardis and Carolyn Costoff, decorations co-chairpersons, report their committee of Joanne Casey, Jean Droegkamp, Marge Gaa, Rose Marie Hevrdejs, Norma Meierdick, Nancy Preston, Fran Priory, Bev Sorenson, Susan Turner and Carol Wilson have been busy preparing decorations that will transform the banquet room into a centennial birthday festival.

A highlight of the evening's program will be the announcement of the Antioch Women's Club Hall of Fame inductees. Committee Chairperson Edna Barr and her committee of Fran Graff, Shirley Jensen, Home LaPlant, Eileen Lewin, Linda Pederson, Ann St. Pierre and Betty Lu Williams have completed the selection process.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Walter Nechoda Trio and dancing to the Night Shift Orchestra will climax the celebration.

Proceeds from the Centennial Ball will be used for the landscaping of the parking lot on the east side of Toft Ave. Plans were presented to the Village Board and have been enthusiastically accepted. This beautification project will be a lasting gift from the Woman's Club for the enjoyment of many generations to come.

ACHS senior participates in scholarship competition

by RHONDA VINZANT
Lakeland Newspapers

Like many high school seniors, Crystal Cox, races to the mailbox each day after school to check for a special letter that will determine her future.

The Antioch High School senior participated in an annual honors scholarship competition at MacMurray College in downstate Jacksonville in January and is eagerly waiting the results which are due by the end of the month.

Crystal, the daughter of John and Chris Cox of Antioch, took part in the 12th annual MacMurray scholarship competition, which pitted academically-talented students against one another for two full-tuition and 18 half-tuition scholarships to the college. Typically about 100 students participate annually on weekends in November and January.

"I really liked the campus there. The people were very friendly," remarked Cox. "I liked the small size of the school where everyone seems to know each other."

MacMurray's fall enrollment was 680 students nearly half the size of Antioch High School.

During the scholarship competition, Cox was required to write a lengthy essay to demonstrate her writing skills which was evaluated by college English and journalism professors. The following day each participant had two interviews apiece with panels of three college and community representatives. "I thought I did very well on the essay," Cox remarked. "I was a little nervous during the interviews but thought I did pretty well." The interviews focus on the student's impressions of MacMurray and their academic and community involvement.

Cox maintains a 4.72 grade point average and is in the top 10 percent of her class participating in honors trigonometry and English. She is a cheerleader and member of the school's softball and field hockey teams. She was nominated to the National Honor Society as well. She also instructs gymnastics for pre-schoolers through 13-year-olds with the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department and umpires for the Little League Association.

In college, she plans to study accounting and hopes to become a certified public accountant (CPA).

Cox was among more than 60 students from high schools through Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Minnesota, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Texas and Washington who participated in the competition. Participation is limited to high school seniors who rank in the upper third of their high school class and have maintained a minimum of a 3.0 GPA.

"The honors competition is our attempt to attract the most well-rounded high school students, who will be our students and campus leaders in a few years," explained Lori Hall, MacMurray assistant director of admissions.

MacMurray college, is a private, four-year liberal arts college affiliated with the United Methodist Church. It is located approximately 30 miles west of Springfield, Ill and attracts students from more than 20 states. The college specializes in the teaching of education for the hearing impaired, nursing, pre-medical and pre-engineering fields.

This fall the college was listed by U.S. News and World Report as being among the top 140 national liberal arts colleges in the United States and was rated by Money magazine as one of the "best buys" in college education for 1992.

Okay new pavilion for Centennial Park

Antioch's newest park will get its own shelter in April or May.

It will be a 30-foot by 60-foot pavilion with concrete floor with a dozen or more picnic benches underneath.

The shelter will be purchased for $4,850 in kit form from an Illinois manufacturer. The kit includes all lumber, nails, bolts, shingles and materials for on-site completion.

The building has trusses, not arches, eliminating places for birds to nest or roost.

Construction, including pouring the footings for 1,000-pound columns, will be bid locally.

All costs are covered as part of a $25,000 budget for the new building in the village budget.

Delivery will take six weeks. With several more weeks for construction, the building should be in place sometime in April.

This is well in advance of the village's 100-year centennial celebration from June 27 to July 4. Some events scheduled as part of that observance will be in the new park.

This is the fifth park in the village. It is located on Anita St. near Antioch Estates subdivision and contains 8.6 acres.

The architectural style of the pavilion is designed to blend with the adjoining subdivision.

Addition of a fireplace at a later date is provided for in construction plans. This is one of the needs at the new park expressed by Trustee Marilyn Shneflug.

Other amenities at the new park are a children's playground and softball field.

First National Bank of Antioch announces record earnings

Ted C. Axton, president and the board of directors are proud to announce record earnings for The First National Bank of Antioch of $662,000 for 1991, an increase of 30 percent over 1990.

During 1991, the First National further expanded its services and product to the Gurnee and Lindenhurst communities with the opening of a new permanent full service facility in April at Brookside Dr. and Grand Ave. (Rte. 132) just one mile west of Gurnee Mills.

In response to customer needs, the bank's Real Estate Dept. also expanded its services in 1991 to include the Secondary Mortgage Market as an originator of Freddie Mac Loans. The First National Bank of Antioch originated over $6,000,000 in home loans, serving customers from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

Apartments

Shineflug said she has trouble with the density restriction proposed by Amundsen.

Amundsen senses a different attitude in the community. "I realize complicated rewrites of complicated ordinances take a long time," he said. "We've got to cut around some of this and get something done."

The Anita S. apartment complex is viewed with mixed emotions by police, neighbors and the residents themselves. Problems that have arrived in Antioch with the apartments and their residents are partially blamed on too many people in a confined area.

Sheriff's Association plans to offer 121 scholarships

Lake County Sheriff Clinton O. Grinnell announced that the Illinois Sheriff's Association plans to award 121 scholarships of a maximum of $500 each, for the academic year 1992-93. The goal of the Association is to provide assistance to worthy Illinois students in furthering their education and training.

The scholarships will be awarded to students pursuing courses of vocational training or attending institutions of higher learning in Illinois. There is no restriction on applications by reason of race, creed, color, age, sex, national origin or the course of study to be pursued. The only limitations are that applicants be permanent residents of Illinois, the scholarships are to be utilized at institutions of learning within the state of Illinois and the students must plan to be enrolled as full-time, undergraduate students.

The Sheriff's scholarship program is funded through the various programs of the Illinois Sheriff's Association, including the Associate Membership Program. Sheriff Grinnell advises all interested students to consult the administrator of the school they are attending now, or the Sheriff's office at (708)360-5830 for information and applications. Applicants should submit their completed application forms to the Lake County Sheriff's Department Attention: Community Services Division, 25 S. Utica Street, Waukegan, IL 60085 before the deadline of March 1. Award recipients will be announced by May 1.

SWCD sets annual election meeting

The annual meeting and election for the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) will be held Feb. 19 at the University of Illinois cooperative Extension Service Auditorium in Grayslake. Preceding the meeting will be a luncheon buffet beginning at noon.

The election of officers will begin at 1 p.m., according to Doris Weidner, chairwoman of the district. Weidner indicates "the district was established by state law. The SWCD is a public body which addresses natural resource concerns throughout the county. The district does not have taxing power. Director responsibilities include program development, addressing land protection, erosion control, flood control, drainage and natural resource planning. Services and programs are voluntary and free unless mandated by law."

The current board of directors includes Weidner, Homer White, Walter Dalitsch, Jr., Jerry Henningfeld and Ginny Nelson Wulf. The terms of Dalitsch, Weidner and White expire this year. The election will fill their positions for two-year terms.

Those wishing to vote in the election need not attend the luncheon. For more information call the district office at (708)223-1056.

Lawyers dodge label

Next month many of us will go to the polls to nominate the people to serve in public office the next two or four years.

Almost 30 of those jobs are here in Lake County. Candidates are on the ballot for jobs ranging from coroner to the County Board.

Another nine offices are jobs in Springfield as state senator or representative.

Some of those asking for our vote have served us well for eight, 10 or 12 years. Like William "Bill" Peterson running for state senate in the new 26th Dist., David Barkhausen for senate in the 30th Dist., state representatives Adeline Geo-Karis in the 31st Dist. and Robert Churchill in the 62nd Dist.

With the exception of Peterson and Barkhausen, the nine Legislative posts are contested.

Between now and March 17 voters will be asked to decipher the rhetoric and entrust their confidence to the best man or woman for the job.

Some are highly qualified candidates who deserve to be elected or re-elected.

But there's something different about the candidates this year. They want to be one of us. Whether appealing to white collar or blue collar voters, they want to be one of them.

The least-promoted label is that of attorney or lawyer. Geo-Karis doesn't use it. Neither does Barkhausen. Churchill quietly mentions it if asked.

Two other lawyer/attorney candidates on the ballot are trying to promote an altogether different image.

Al Salvi running for state representative in the 52nd Dist. is a trial lawyer. But his literature calls him a small businessman. He runs a one-man law firm in Waukegan.

Paul Chervin, who heads a major law firm in Waukegan, is running against Geo-Karis for the state senate. He sees himself a "citizen-legislator."

Does this suggest something?

Are there already too many lawyers in Springfield making more laws to enforce those already on the books? An estimated 20 to 25 percent of the General Assembly has a legal background. Lawyers are the predominant occupation of legislators.

Do we need more?

Voters will have to decide that.

Personally, we think Illinois needs more office holders like small insurance businessman Ralph Swank (running for state representative in the 61st Dist.) and former Buffalo Grove Mayor Verna Clayton (running for state representative in the new 51st Dist.).

They are close to the people they seek to represent.

Republicans baring their knuckles

by BILL SCHROEDER

Liberals and Democrats are going to cry dirty pool, but Republicans are developing a subtle 1992 campaign theme that puts the patriotism of opponents on the line.

And, interestingly, the strategy seems to stretch from our town to the White House.

Making a Lincoln Day appearance in the county, Gov. Jim Edgar took Democrats to task for "trying to undermine the system." Edgar, of course, is implying that Republicans understand "the system" and are ready, willing and able to do what's best here, in Springfield and in Washington.

Relaxed, confident and speaking in modulated tones as opposed to his secretary of state's choir boy voice, the Guv got in some excellent political shots in a self-effacing manner, preferring to talk about local candidates and Rich Williamson, GOP aspirant for U.S. senator, rather than himself.

Edgar's style played right into the theme of electing candidates to public office who will fight unbridled spending, higher taxes and promote individual freedom. To hear Edgar talk, the battle for freedom begins in the village hall and the courthouse and extends to Capitol Hill. The governor pointedly sketched the incongruity of the quest for freedom in former Soviet Russian while Democrats in Washington and Springfield are racing down the path of socialism.

Shades of Willie Horton! Sounds like the GOP is preparing for bare knuckle fighting this year.

GOOD LISTENERS---Count Congressman Phil Crane as a prominent U.S. official not engaging in Japan bashing. Crane, in fact, is willing to give the Japanese due credit for being good listeners.

"Their taxation system which emphasizes saving and investment is right out of the University of Chicago School of Economics," observes Crane, who points out that the Japanese are doing exactly "what we told them to do" after World War II when they were rebuilding their war-torn economy and a nation in shambles.

With no little amusement, Crane related a trip to Japan 10 years ago where American business leaders and politicians were bug-eyed over innovative Japanese automotive manufacturing techniques, particularly in the area of robotics.

Japanese car makers expressed wonderment, Crane recalled, when they learned that U.S. car makers weren't employing robots in the early 1980's "because we learned all about them from you." Another example of good listening.

Conversation with Crane was disquieting to the extent that Mexico now is making tremendous economic strides employing methods and policies learned in American universities. Another Japan right on our southern border?

Smart folks, those Japanese and Mexicans. They listen and learn from our professors, but pay no attention to our politicians.

DOUBLE OUCH---State Sen. Jack Schaffer, running for a Congressional seat in northern Illinois, concedes that facing a primary battle in unfamiliar territory is a lot tougher than running for reelection in Wauconda, Crystal Lake or Fox Lake.

"I found that out when Iowa television interviewed me on my first stop." Speaking of the primary, Schaffer exclaimed, "I'd rather slide down a razor." The talented McHenry County Republican relishes the thought of tackling a liberal Democrat in November, but he admits he's working hard to defeat a primary foe. Schaffer's foe is an attorney. This is one election where members of the bar are encountering voter hostility. "I don't mind that at all," Schaffer admits with a grin.

RARE TYPE---School boards might operate differently if there were more people like Bud Jasmer, who attends meetings and takes notes. The retired Ft. Sheridan maintenance supervisor monitors the workings of the Antioch High School board closely. When Jasmer has questions, he speaks out. After spending more than 30 years in Civil Service, Jasmer has some interesting insights into how government works.

One thing that bothers the mild-mannered retiree is that elected officials tend to label anyone who asks a question as an opponent or a trouble maker. "I'm not against education. I just want to be informed," Jasmer explains as he gathers information about enrollments and tax rates for the district experiencing growth problems. Jasmer feels AHS has some definite needs, but the requirements might not be embodied in a $32 million new school plan shot down by voters last fall.

Rude Stevenson fans

Editor:

We attended a basketball game featuring two great teams, Warren Township and Stevenson High, a competition to decide No. 1 in the North Suburban Conference. Warren players played hard as did Stevenson. We on the Warren side became very upset due to the behavior of Stevenson to the Warren players and Warren cheerleaders.

We knew the Stevenson crowd was going to be rude from the very start. Singing the National Anthem was a young fellow with a beautiful voice. Stevenson began cheering and literally drowned him out. There was a complete lack of respect (Stevenson) for the singer. Warren cheerleaders were drowned out by Stevenson cheerleaders.

Stevenson's star player, Chris Coleman, was on the bench with a hand injury. Not once did we hear negative, hurtful remarks about Coleman. Stevenson fans were rude to our players with remarks like "Kill the big guy; mess up his knee. Knock him on his screwed up knee." They were referring to a Warren player who had knee surgery.

Stevenson will visit Warren in February. I'm not the only one who will remember their behavior. They will be our guests and we will treat them as guests. I only hope they remember to bring their manners.

Endorsement confession

Editor:

One of Al Salvi's three opponents from Barrington tried, unsuccessfully, to undo Grant Township's unanimous endorsement of Al Salvi. The basis? Al Salvi's opponent learned that his wife circulated the petition of a non-endorsed candidate in the Porter/Sullivan race.

The Lake County Republican endorsed candidate for state representative for the 52nd District is Al Salvi.

If it's so bad to circulate a petition for a non-endorsed candidate, then why are Al Salvi's Barrington opponents running against the endorsed candidate Al Salvi?

Township skullduggery

Editor:

I was interested to read that the Avon Twp. Board, after taking office in 1989, gave newly-elected township clerk a raise in pay and justified it by saying she would be a full-time employee and given additional duties as office manager.

Now, I read the clerk has gone to work for the Round Lake Heights police department as records clerk in 1991, a job whose hours were 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. I called the township office to ask what time their offices were open, and they told me from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday!

How can an elected official be given a raise after they take office under the excuse they are given additional full-time duties (requiring full-time work), and then with the approval of the township board, take another job during the exact hours of business?

It's no wonder people loose faith in our elected officials with this type of skullduggery.

CHURCHILL'S NEMESIS

State Rep. Robert Churchill isn't getting a free ride back to the 62nd Dist. seat he has had in Springfield for 10 years.

Early on it looked like he might go without spending a dime for re-election. He had no opposition.

That was before Jim Mitchell moved to Lindenhurst. The two-time appointed County Board member from Deerfield was a last-minute filer for Churchill's job. He's also running for the County Board in the 3rd Dist. where there are several candidates beginning with incumbent Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa.

Who's this Mitchell's guy? He's never won a major election.

As for Churchill, his campaign went from spending nothing to one costing $25,000.

Some of that money was used to file a challenge to Mitchell's petitions. Almost 100 signatures were thrown out. The signers weren't registered. It didn't work. Mitchell can still play spoiler.

"This proves Churchill is beatable," Mitchell said philosophically.

GOP HEART THROB

Winner of this year's prestigious Heartbeat award of the Grant Twp. Republican Club is one of their own, Donna Mae Litwiler.

She follows such recipients as Coroner Barbara Richardson, the late Sheriff Mickey Babcox, U.S. Dist. Atty. Fred Foreman (while Lake County state's attorney) and a host of others.

A committeeman for 20 years, Donna is township GOP chairman. A fixture in the Secretary of State's office, her vanity license plate is "The Lip." She's a personal friend of Gov. Jim Edgar, former secretary of state.

The award is for service to the Republican party.

BIG BUCK CAMPAIGNS

This year's first and, probably, only $100 per person fund raiser was last Friday at the posh Midlane Country Club in Waukegan.

It was for Libertyville Twp. Supv. Ralph Swank Jr., who is running for state rep in the new 61st Dist. Some 250 people showed up.

What's he doing with the war chest? Matching challenger Andrea Moore mailing for mailing. Somebody must have coordinated their first two to arrive almost simultaneously.

Also helping the U.S. Postal Service become more profitable are two candidates in the new 52nd Dist.—Al Salvi and Nancy Masterson. They have had four. More are on the way. At $10,000 per crack, printing and postage, voters are getting an expensive diet of politics.

CRANE TAKES HEAT

Congress Phil Crane of the new 8th Dist. wasn't too worried about the spring primary as of last week. He put up a couple of billboards calling himself the "Taxpayer's best friend," sent out a newsletter and dubious survey at taxpayer expense.

Then, he went to Mexico for a weekend junket. Admittedly, it was on business. Something about a government trade mission and jobs. It was a two-days in Mexico City where the temperature is 90-degrees plus.

Sure is nice work if you can get it.

Oh yes, remember opponent Gary Skoien's challenge to Crane's residency. Is it McHenry (a coach house above a garage) Mt. Prospect (the home of an aide) of Arlington, Va. (where he has a real home)? The state Elections Board threw it out.

"This was another of Skoien's non-issue, gimmicks and cheap shots designed to get publicity," said Crane aide Kirt Johnson.

Unlike the 10th Dist. where pro-choice incumbent Congressman John Porter is facing right-to-lifer Kathleen Sullivan, that issue hasn't come up in the 8th Dist. For those who want to know, Crane is pro-life, Skoien pro-choice.

GREAT HUNTER

Grant Twp. Highway Comm. Jack Kiesgen is a good hunter. Years ago, on a downstate goose hunting trip, he brought back a girl named Charlotte. She became his wife and a County Board member in Dist. 4.

Last year, Charlotte, who has a county-western voice like Patsy Kline, ran off with another singer, Ron Payton. They are supposedly living and singing in an area around Hoopston.

That gave Jack time to go hunting again. This time for quail. Seen with him as of late is a trophy named Kim. She's a knock out. Jack looks great himself. Looks like he's found the fountain of youth.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE...

Three of them appeared on the "Studs" TV show earlier this month. This is where unknown men and women are paired, go on dates and return to tell about it.

Of the congressman's seven daughters, three were on the racy Fox network show: Susannah, 27; Rachel, 25; and Carrie, 18.

Comments they made about two men included:

"He's got a butt like a Twinkie. Just bursting with cream."

"Even our sweat couldn't put out the fire we started in his bedroom."

"Our bodies went together like jelly in a doughnut."

"I painted his flesh with the gloss from my lips."

Crane didn't see the show.

COATTAIL WAR

Lots of red Al Salvi (state rep. candidate in the 52nd Dist) and Howard Bieze (County Board hopeful in Dist. 5) were posted side-by-side the first weekend of signmania.

"Are you riding Bieze's coattails or is he riding yours?" I asked Salvi.

"Neither," he said. "It was just an overly ambitious sign crew," he said of the signmakers led by Gurnee Atty. Peter Karlovics.

"I heard about it," Salvi said of the Grant Twp. crowd backing Fox Lake druggist Ed Fojtik. "I told them to go ahead and do the same."

FRANK'S BIG PARTY

Recorder of Deeds Frank Nustra will have his very first fund raiser. After 53 years in public office, he decided it was about time.

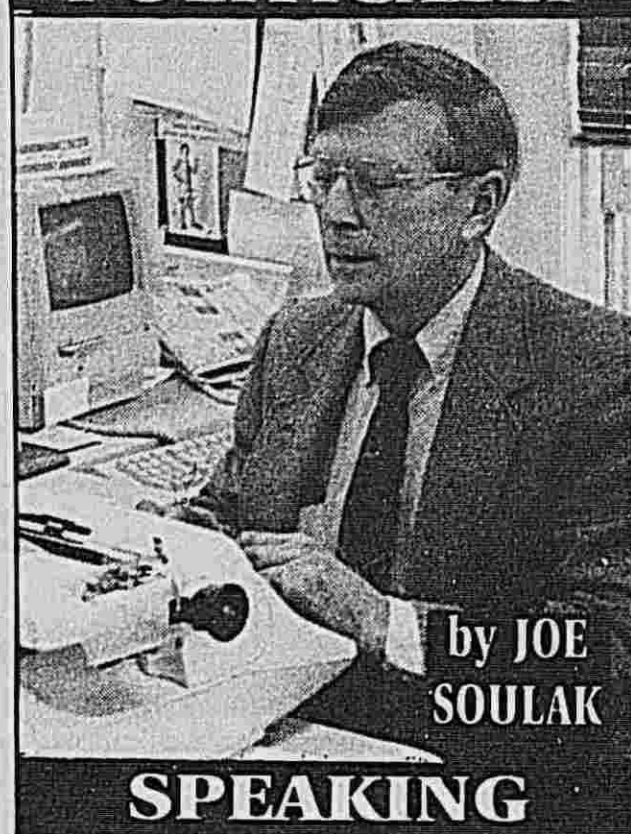

People have been asking him to hold one ever since his 50-year testimonial three years ago. Second, he needs the money. "Mailings and campaigning costs so much more these days," said the recorder of 32 years.

The party will be Thursday, Feb. 20 at the Country Squire restaurant, Grayslake, from 5 to 8 p.m. Tickets are $25 each. This is a must-show event for candidates.

OVERHEARD/SEEN

LAKE VILLA—County Board member Suzi Schmidt was called to California over the weekend when her father suffered an aneurysm and stroke. He died Feb. 10. The absence cost her a radio interview, a candidate forum and, possibly, an appearance at her own fund raiser on Saturday at the Brae Loch Country Club in Grayslake. LIBERTYVILLE—Jack Martin says his petitions for precinct committee didn't have any ringers. "My son, Gregory, who owns a condo in Fox Lake, did not sign," he said. "Neither did my other two sons because they are away at school. A Joe Martin, no relation, did sign." Only 10 signatures were needed. Martin got 12, just in case. BEACH PARK—Eleanor Rostron, who is running against Robert Neal for the County Board in Dist. 2, has a grass-roots campaign. It is post cards, signs and a lot of knocking on doors. "I can't outspend Neal. And I certainly can't out talk him because that is what he does best. So I'm doing what I know best. Going to the people."

LIBERTYVILLE—Stationary of former township Supv. F.T. "Mike" Graham has always featured a pastoral scene and Will Rogers words: "We ain't making no more land." Appropriate for Mr. Open Space. As for Mrs. Open Space, that title might go to Carol Calabresa, Graham's one-time County Board counterpart. Her stationary features a tree-covered country lane and the words: "Protecting today's environment for tomorrow's needs."

ANTIOCH—Judy Martini candidate for the County Board in Dist. 1, isn't shy. "I'm the youngest and prettiest of all the candidates," said the 39-year old real estate agent. Her task: unseat incumbent Jim Fields. He's the County Board fixture famous for the line: "I can't do anything about it."

COMING EVENTS

Friday, Feb. 14—Valentine's Day reception for state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), Country Squire, Grayslake, 5 to 8 p.m. For $25 tickets call (708) 872-5661. Friday, Feb. 14—Fund raiser for Dist. 3 County Board candidate Barbara Oilschlager at Lake Villa VFW, Grand Ave., 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.. For $10 tickets call Bill Burns at (708) 356-1076. Saturday, Feb. 15—Fund raiser for County Board incumbents Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa and Larry Leafblad of Highland Lake at Brae Loch Country Club, Grayslake, 8 p.m. to midnight. For $15 tickets or $25 per couple, call Schmidt at (708) 355-3173.

Too much giveaway

Editor:

Public officials and employees paid by taxpayers for villages, townships, counties, states and the army of federal representatives and employees across this country are milking the taxpayers of millions and billions of dollars for every paid holiday and paid sick leave.

It cost the taxpayers just on the federal level alone $291,240,000 for one legal holiday, now don't forget all the other government agencies who are also getting paid. (I say) the party is over, let's go back to the beginning, when you work you get paid.

Most Americans work until they reach the age of 62 years old (early retirement) and a lot of them work until the age of 65 years old before retiring to collect Social Security. In government, however, you can retire with 20 to 30 years of service and become eligible for full pay pension. These early birds then go back out into the work force, work until they're 62 and now they're eligible for another pension. Most people call them double dippers. (Why not make it starting in January 1993, that taxpayers' paid pensions cannot be received until you reach the government specified retirement age of 62 or 65 years under the Social Security Act, and get back all the giveaway paid holidays).

Taxpayers, we can save the country from financial disaster. Writer your Congressman, State Representative and the President of the United States. Let's get it on the ballot in the November general election.

Distrust of bigness

Editor:

Our founding fathers harbored an ingrained distrust of large government. Now their fears have been realized. Our daily lives are regulated to the point of oppression and our economy is grievously afflicted largely due to increased taxation and the inept and prolonged tinkering with the economy.

Our economy is in shambles, there is a huge trade imbalance, many financial institutions on the brink of bankruptcy, an education system slipping rapidly behind the rest of the world, and a health care system bogged down in paper work and outrageous costs.

Where are we looking for solutions and where are we seeking relief? Many are imploring our Legislature and political leadership for answers. This doesn't make sense. Thomas Jefferson stated in his inaugural address in 1801:

"A wise and frugal government which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government."

Let's begin now to readopt that philosophy and make those words the foundation for the reforms that must appear if we hope to rescue this nation from its decline.

Edgar rallies GOP for Lincoln dinner

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Gov. James Edgar was the big draw for the 400 Republican faithful attending this year's 44th annual Lincoln Day dinner in Grant Twp.

He became another in a series of Republican governors who have addressed this audience over the years. Edgar is no stranger to this occasion or its sponsors. After being elected secretary of state in 1981 this Lincoln Day dinner was one of his first speeches.

Over the years Edgar made additional appearances in Lake County and Fox Lake. The most intensive led to his 1980 election as governor.

Helping in the 1980 and 1990 races was his county campaign coordinator, Donna Mae Litwiler of Long Lake. She is currently the senior citizen coordinator for the secretary of state's office, which Edgar formerly headed.

Litwiler recalled at the Feb. 8 Lincoln Day dinner that Edgar was so impressed by her tenacity, vocal ability and willingness to get things done he paid for her personalized license plate, "The Lip."

"Donna Mae and Grant Twp. have

been good to Edgar," the speaker said.

As Edgar was impressed, so was this year's Republican club committee to pick the recipient of the 1992 Heartbeat award. The hands-down winner was Litwiler. She follows such other distinguished recipients as U.S. Atty. General Fred Foreman, Coroner Barbara Richardson and the late sheriff, Robert "Mickey" Babcox. The award is for outstanding, continued service to the Republican party. Litwiler, who was also honored at the dinner for her 20 years as a Republican precinct committeeman, is currently serving as township party chairman.

Edgar recalled his 1981 appearance at this event, saying an aide questioned his attending a township function. "You've got to understand this function is bigger than a township," he answered. "It's bigger than some counties." This year's was.

A sell-out crowd of 400 attended. They ranged from committeemen and their wives to Congressman Philip Crane (R-Mount Prospect), Foreman, Richardson Sheriff Clinton Grinnell and dozens of candidates for the March primary. For them it was a "must show" event.

Edgar lauded those candidates, a handful of them for seats in the nine House and Senate seats to be filled from Lake County this year. New are one in the Senate and two in the House.

The governor said new candidates bring new "faces" to the party. When he first ran for a local office in 1974, Edgar said his supporters were young, idealistic and determined. "I lost that election. But many of those supporters are still there. Today they are the established."

Thanks to Republican redistricting, Edgar said he hopes to have a Republican majority in both branches after the November elections. "I need this to advance my programs," the governor said.

Just as he needs help in November, so does President George Bush, the governor said. With that he introduced Rich Williamson, candidate for the U.S. Senate in the fall election.

Edgar is chairman of Bush's Illinois campaign. He noted Illinois is one of three pivotal states in the election.

Edgar admitted the national economy is "sluggish" and Bush has a battle on his hands. "Two weeks ago the president outlined his economic program and gave Congress 60 days to act," the governor said in turning his attention to Washington. "If Congress is concerned about jobs and the economy, it will move. If not, the Democrats will have to take the blame."

Despite the Republican president having a Democratic Congress, Edgar said positive things can be accomplished. He cited his own experience with a partisan Democratic Assembly led by powerful Mike Madigan. "We closed a $350 million gap last July and came back together last month to tighten our belt even more," he said of two legislative fights that ended in compromises to maintain the fiscal health of Illinois.

"I stood firm. I said no. We can't spend money we don't have."

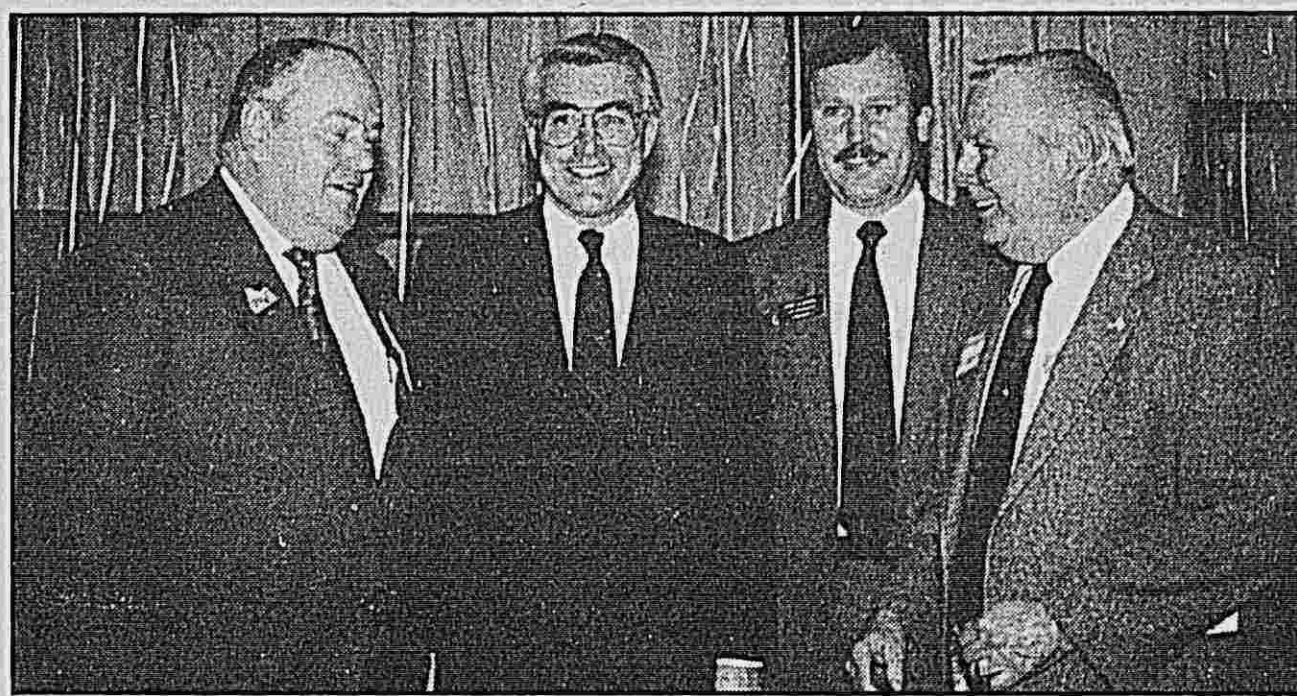

"Today the governor and legislature are closer than all my 25 years in Springfield," he said of political roots going back to his days as a state representative.

"But I could do much more if I had a Republican House and Senate," the governor said. "You would see a much better state. We will shed the excesses of the '80s and face the reality of the '90s."

In closing, he intoned everyone at the prime rib dinner to work for the party in November, vote and "help build a better Illinois."

He was given a standing ovation by the 400.

But the man the occasion honored was never mentioned. There was a portrait of Abraham Lincoln on the podium where the governor spoke. Other than that, the 16th president was the forgotten man with his birthday four days away.

Lincoln Day dinner guests

Salvi, Mitchell, Grever still in race

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

Absentee voting in Lake County has been delayed until Monday due to petition challenges against one county board candidate and office seekers in four congressional districts.

Linda Hess, Lake County Clerk, said, "We were unable to get the ballots printed because we do not have all the candidates' names because there have been objections filed to some petitions and the hearings have not been brought to a conclusion." Consequently, though a Supreme Court order called for the ballots by Feb. 11, the voting tickets will not be available until Feb. 17.

In the 62nd congressional district, U.S. Rep. Robert Churchill has protested signatures on opponent James Mitchell's petition. U.S. Rep. Philip Crane's application for re-election in the new 8th congressional district has also been challenged.

Barrington-based attorney Thomas Malik, who is opposing Al Salvi in the 52nd district race for state representative, also is hoping to eliminate his competition with a petition challenge. In the 26th district state senate race, Lori Peterson of Long Grove has objected to Steven Lasko's petition.

District 19 County Board candidates Robert Grever and Bruce Hansen, both of Lake Zurich, are also at odds. Though the Lake County Electoral Board months ago ruled to keep Grever on the ballot, Hansen appealed. Lake County Circuit Court Judge Stephen E. Walter Tuesday upheld the electoral board's decision.

The Lake County Electoral Board Monday dismissed the complaint against Salvi when Malik failed to appear and make his case against his opponent's petition.

The board deliberated for seven hours spread over two days before voting unanimously to retain Mitchell on the ballot. Hess said Churchill, counseled by attorney Bernard Wysocki, could invalidate only 76 of 401 signatures from Mitchell's petition, 25 short of putting his challenger out of the race.

The county electoral board handles objections in legislative and congressional districts only when the districts lie wholly within the county. "This is the first time in nine years that we have heard any state rep cases. There have been objections in the past but they have been in districts that also lie in another county," Hess said.

The State Board of Elections plans to meet Friday when it is expected to decide the challenges to Crane and Lasko's petitions.

"As soon as the ballots are printed we will be sending them out," Hess said.

Judge jilts Riverwoods in country club case

Lakeland Newspapers

Lake County Circuit Court Judge Stephen Walter said the Lake County Forest Preserve District has no obligation to acquire Thorngate County Club, disappointing Riverwoods trustees.

In a suit filed last year, Riverwoods claimed the district prior to last spring's election of a new board entered into a contract with the village to purchase the private golf course. As part of the contract, the district agreed to condemn the property in return for the village's contribution of $5 million toward the cost of acquisition. Riverwoods residents approved the move by referendum.

The Forest Preserve Board agreed the former board, led by C. Richard Anderson, did authorize the contract; however, a month later on Jan. 18 the new board rescinded the action. Riverwoods challenged the move but Walter upheld the action Feb. 4. In reaching his decision, Walter rejected several arguments posed by Riverwoods, including its claim that the Forest Preserve acted in bad faith by refusing to honor the contract.

"The previous board left us with an open-ended, multi-million dollar offer to acquire a private country club," said district President Andrea Moore.

"When the new board took office, we immediately recognized that we could not acquire Thorngate Country Club without sacrificing many other more appropriate acquisitions. We knew that our taxpayers simply would not support the idea of spending $25- to $30 million to buy a country club. I am relieved that Judge Walter has sustained the current board's decision to abandon this totally unrealistic project," she said.

The move to have the property at Arrowwood Trail and Riverwoods Road condemned comes from a desire by Riverwoods to block development of the country club by Lexington Homes, Inc. according to elected officials. The company has sought rezoning and annexation into Riverwoods but about two months ago began pursuing rezoning with county.

David Leibson, director of marketing for Lexington Homes, Inc., said he did not know if the company planned to drop annexation efforts with Riverwoods. "We're anxious to get this property zoned and developed and will pursue all reasonable avenues," he said.

Soured by Walter's decision, Riverwoods Trustee Paul Newall said, "I don't think Mrs. Moore has ever met a developer she didn't like. It is a continuing shame in Lake County that they (the Forest Preserve Board) talk out of one side of their mouth about open space, but they slap people in southern Lake County in the face by tearing up an agreement that they had with us.

"It would appear as far as the County Board is concerned that all south Lake County is good for is supplying taxes for them to spend elsewhere as they see fit."

Riverwoods trustees intend to discuss the action and plan their next move Feb. 18. Newall said he would support an appeal of Walter's decision. Board President Chuck Smith concurs. "We would like to acquire Thorngate by any legal means possible," he said.

"That property is zoned for recreation and agriculture," Smith said. "It lacks any infrastructure improvements. It has neither sewer nor water."

Lexington Homes, Inc. has proposed building sewers to service the development.

Dunesland society to meet

The Illinois Dunesland Preservation Society invites the public to their luncheon meeting at noon on Saturday, Feb. 15 at the Madison Avenue Restaurant, 34 N. Sheridan Rd., Waukegan. Cliff Miller, formerly a naturalist at Ryerson Forest Preserve and who now operates a Lake Forest landscaping firm, will present a pictorial review of Lake Bluff's Sunrise Park progress in erosion restoration using native plant materials. For luncheon reservations call (708) 746-1090.

In our area many have concerns about Lake Michigan shore line erosion and the various approaches to stabilizing the problem. Miller is a professional landscaper specializing in the use and restoration of native plant communities. He is a member of the team working on the erosion problem through the restoration of the Sunrise Park plant population. He has developed an interesting presentation of bluff restoration techniques and an introduction to history of bluff plant communities.

After the flowers and lace, what is love?

It's February. Valentine's Day. Time for whispering sweet nothings, giving flowers and romance. Time for hearts to go pitter patter.

Songwriters and poets have been defining love for centuries. Back in 1964, the composer/lyricist team of Sammy Cahn and James Van Heusen said love's a bore. A ball game without a score. Love is a sailboat without a sail, they said. The lock on the candy store.

It's "I'll call you tomorrow." It's a phone that never rings. It's a sack full of sorrow on a ride on angel's wings.

They also said to remember the next time you soar, love is an exit without a door; but if you're in love you'll ignore all the things that they said.

Chet Atkins sang in 1968 about the birds and the bees and the flowers and the trees and the moon up above, but he never gave love a definition. About the same time, emotional conflict was spotlighted and composer/lyricist Chet Powers said love is but a song we sing. Before things got complicated, poet Robert Burns simply said his love is like a red, red rose.

Like the fortune in a cookie, it's all relative, which is a good thing because far above the battlefields of love and drunk wines of paradise, love sits upon the choicest of church seats.

Love isn't born, it's made, said poet Rod McKuen. Feed it lullabies and you'll get lullabies in return. Like the firelight's first warm glow, love is a thing that needs to grow. Feed it jelly beans, treat it kind and happiness you will find, he said. Listen to the warm, he said. "With love, it's either famine or feast. You've got to learn to smile at least," he wrote.

For love is blind all day and may not see, said Geoffrey Chaucer. Love is the beginning of knowledge as fire is of light, claimed Thomas Carlyle.

by DEBRA A. SCHWARZ

What more can be said? In the immortal words of playwright Henry Fielding, love and scandal are the best sweeteners of tea.

Dr. Leo Jacobs, medical director of adult psychiatric services at Good Shepherd Hospital in Barrington, said love is "something you climb into rather than fall into; and love is not neediness."

At one time or another, each one of us struggles to define love for ourselves. Pondering romantic love, infatuation, feelings of deep attachment and bonding to another person, caring and compassion for another person, desiring feelings of affection and emotional intimacy with that other person can become an obsession at any age, given the right conditions.

"We all agree (love) involves an affinity for (another) person; a desire and longing to be with that person," said Barrington-based psychologist Paul Gorecki.

"What love is not is dependency. It involves dependability versus dependency. It's a good thing to be dependable, but not to depend on someone emotionally," he said. "Dependency often involves a fear of not having that person. Love is the half full glass of water. Dependency would be the fear that (the glass) would be empty."

A short circuit in reasoning could result from infatuation, but once that settles down, "you have love as friendship, which includes the ability to communicate, to show respect and feel respected. It requires knowing what you're responsible for and what the other person is responsible for," said Ronald Rosenthal, a Libertyville-based clinical psychologist.

Love is a matter of accepting the other person, he said. "It means being able to listen and to appreciate but also to know what to do for oneself, because you have to be able to love yourself to be able to give of yourself. You can't have the other person be so totally responsible for making you feel good. You have to accept yourself.

"Love isn't hormones racing or possession," he said. "Love is not spending all your time and expecting all your pleasure to come from one person, and love is not having someone as a showpiece," Rosenthal said.

Trapping someone in the confines of jealousy and possessiveness is not love either, according to William Lee, a clinical psychologist in Waukegan. "Imposition of one's values on the other person is not love, selfishness is not love, disrespect is not love. Sex is not love. Either buying or desiring material things is not a sign of love," he said.

Material things when used as a manipulation, with a "you owe me" attached no matter how subtly, breaks down communication, he said.

Giving material things could be a means of validating a feeling, or an expression of inadequacy, but giving as a pure reflection of one's feelings is non-verbal communication in its purest form. "If a person has a discomfort with verbally expressing their feelings, they may do so in a subtle fashion, which can be by giving material things. That's not necessarily bad. It becomes bad when there's some of the manipulative aspects to it, like when I want a favor, you need to keep this gift in mind and pay me back somehow, whether it's fishing with the boys or getting out of going to the in-laws," Lee said.

Love is a strong emotion that has meaning in terms of self-validation, he said. "It helps define who you are as a person, particularly as to whether you can handle relationships, meet each other's needs, have them meet your needs. It's also powerful because it can lead to feelings of rejection, depression and loss of self-esteem," he said.

Dispelling fairy tales and legends about love, Lee said it sometimes creates assumptions between two people. "If you love me, then you'll be able to read my mind, know what I want, know what my needs are. That's a fallacy. It's a myth of love and it creates obvious communication problems."

Imagine: Slowly, and in silence the mist absorbs the lakes and the hills, birds fly out of nowhere and back into nowhere again, there is intimacy in the soft air ... Author Gwen Frostic said these things are ours for a fleeting moment and then they are ours forever. But is it love?

Snowdrops instead of roses?

Quite simply, the English say that birds choose their mates on Valentine's Day. Therefore it is a day to celebrate love.

Marking the day, English poet Geoffrey Chaucer in the 1300s wrote "For this was on St. Valentine's Day, /When every fowl cometh there to choose his mate." William Shakespeare also followed the belief as demonstrated in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" when a character in the play discovers two lovers in the woods and asks, "St. Valentine is past; /Begin these woodbirds but to couple now?"

The origin of the holiday can be traced to the ancient Romans, however the designation seemingly was made by early Christians. Customs, which include whipping people, date back to the Roman Empire.

According to World Book Encyclopedia, the ancient Romans held the festival of Lupercalia on Feb. 15 to insure protection from wolves. During this celebration, young men struck people with strips of animal hide. Women took the blows because they thought the whipping made them more fertile. The festival of Lupercalia has been linked with Valentine's Day because of the similar date and the connection with fertility.

Antique valentine collector Gladys Loomis of unincorporated Fremont Township added this insight: "In time the wolves died out and the pagans were rid of their plague but they kept their holiday. It was just a plain celebration, no cards, none of that sort of thing."

Lupercus, the god to whom the Romans prayed to rid them of a plague of wolves, lost favor in the eye of the Romans once the animals were gone. Their worship was then turned to Juno, queen of the Roman gods who ruled over love and marriage, Loomis said. Cupid, the god of love, took a back seat to the queen.

Now Roman Emperor Claudius II, who ruled in the A.D. 200s, forbade young men to marry because he believed single men made better soldiers. A priest named Valentine disobeyed the emperor's order (Continued on page 21)

Polkadot Puppeteers

For a Saturday morning of entertainment that will stimulate the imagination check out the performance of "The Polkadot Puppeteers." They will take the stage Feb. 22, at the Stage Two Theater in Waukegan as the third installment in the theater's "Super Saturday," children's series.

Donna Casey and her puppet friends will bring to life before the audience's young eyes the tales of Red Riding Hood and other childhood favorites. The puppeteers will also involve the audience in hands-on puppeteering.

Two performances are scheduled beginning at 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Admission is $3. The Stage Two Theater Company is located at 12 N. Sheridan Road in Waukegan. For Reservations and information contact the theater at, 662-7088.

Young Musicians in Motion

The David Adler Cultural Center in Libertyville is accepting registrations for Young Musicians in Motion, an introductory music class for three to five-year-olds.

The class is based upon the system of music education developed by Carl Orff. "It's pre-instrumental training that is essential to helping children develop the concepts of rhythm and melody," said Muriel Schornack of the cultural center. "The concepts are essential for children that are going to study a musical instrument."

The study of Orff-Schulwerk will help children develop concepts of pitch and melody, rhythm and pulse through singing, chanting, dancing and clapping. Students also learn to accompany themselves on pitched and non-pitched percussion instruments.

According to Schornack the development of these concepts are essential prerequisites for the study of a particular instrument. Knowledge of these musical concepts will help students as they begin studying an instrument because they are then able to concentrate on the technical aspects and fine muscle coordination necessary to produce the melodic sounds.

The cost is $85 for 10 weeks for non-members and $75 for member. For information contact the center at 367-0707.—by RHONDA VINZANT

Rweel World

'Tomatoes' feeds on life using people for entree

'During the cold and dreary month of January, when the newspaper headlines are even drearier, any bit of sunshine is more than welcome and "Green Fried Tomatoes" is the film industry's warming contribution.

Using a tried and true Hollywood formula, a story full of heart and ingratiating characters to boot, "Tomatoes," rated PG13 by the way, takes a fresh view of the power of the human soul laced with lots of comedy and romance. It's warm, whimsical, wacky besides being a little soul-searching.

This picture stars four excellent actresses led by two Academy Award winners, Jessica Tandy ("Driving Miss Daisy,") and Kathy Bates ("Misery).

Despite this formidable company, Mary Stuart Masterson steals the show.

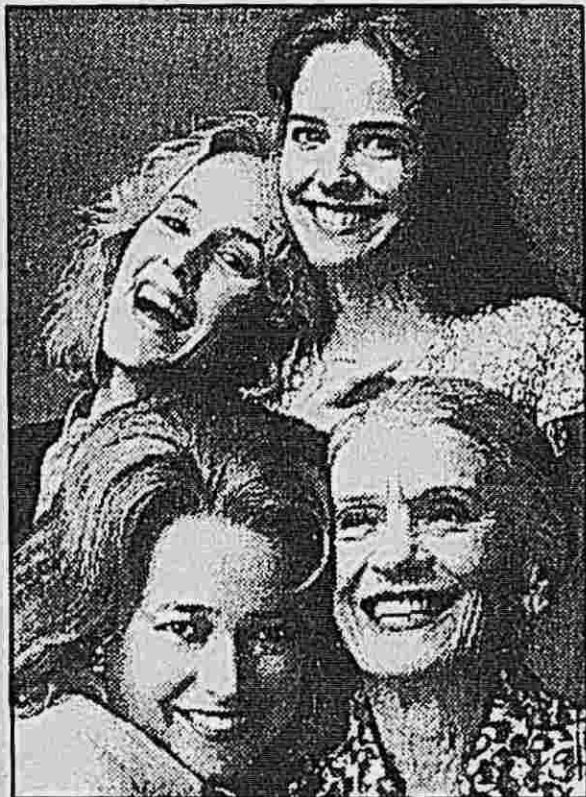

Ms. Masterson and Mary-Louise Parker, who also turns in a fine performance, are the stars of Ms. Tandy's flashback.

Ms. Bates, a frustrated and unhappy chubby middle-aged housewife, meets Ms. Tandy when she volunteers to visit nursing home clients.

Then we meet the powerful characters portrayed by Ms. Stuart and Ms. Parker as Ms. Tandy reminisces about life and its prejudices in a small Georgia town in the 1940s. We see how the tale of two ladies' fight against racial and sexual prejudice changes Ms. Bates boring and unsatisfying life.

On a smaller scale than the larger cast of "Steel Magnolias," these four ladies come into the audience's heart with a crescendo and probably will never leave their memory.

We give "Tomatoes" 4.5 stars out of five with a slight subtraction for the hackney use of the flashback.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Mary Stuart Masterson, Mary Louise Parker, Kathy Bates, Jessica Tandy

Was it a conspiracy?

Andre's serves comic tomatoes

Andre's Steakhouse and Rosebud Productions are serving up their second offering for their dinner/theatre season, "A Bad Year For Tomatoes," a comedy by John Patrick.

The plot of the show revolves around the idea of an aging actress who retires from the crazy world of Hollywood to a quiet New England village to write her memoirs only to be invaded by a zany group of home-grown bad tomatoes. How she deals with their crazy antics and her romance with two men will have audiences laughing away the winter blues.

The show is running weekends through Feb. 22. Call (815)678-2671 for information and reservations.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may shake your head at the power plays that go on this week. Let them pass you by, and you will be a lot happier. Plan on a cozy Valentine's Day with your sweetheart ... champagne and a wonderful dinner at home hits the spot. Count on a long and cuddly weekend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) When you write your memoirs, this week will stand out as one of your favorites. You are personality-plus all week long. Your sensitive communicating has what you want (whatever that is) tumbling into your lap as the weekend comes. You know the greenest of the green pastures.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take a deep breath before you energize. Your magnetic field is quite powerful this week. Just be careful where, and at whom, you toss it. You are master of your own fate right now. Let go of a difficult situation where another must have it "their way".

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You climb the highest peak, but you also travel the lowest abyss this week. You may feel as if you're at the mercy of another's whims. Take command of your ship and, even if there is a stand-off, you come out the winner. Besides, you find out how lovable you are — all weekend long.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Count on really being noticed this week, and you'll be ready for what goes on. Leo is the sign of the lover and no one is surprised by all the attention and adulation you receive. Make the most out of the moment, you big pussycat. You'll be curled up and warm all weekend long.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Catch what's going on behind the scenes this week before you launch into action. Tune into your higher values and more loving side. Follow through on the pursuit of happiness all week long, and you are in for a dynamite Valentine's Day, and day after, and day after and ...

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Togetherness is the name of the game this Valentine's week. You get the full meaning as you play Romeo (or Juliet) and delight those who cherish and adore you. Take a risk, jump through the fiery hoop before the weekend, and you'll have a wonderful Valentine's weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Though you're a "tough" sign (and can do quite well alone), this isn't the case this week. Others seek you out and want to be with you. You discover just how popular you really are. Now your biggest job is to choose among all those Valentines. For best results — tell it like it is.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-

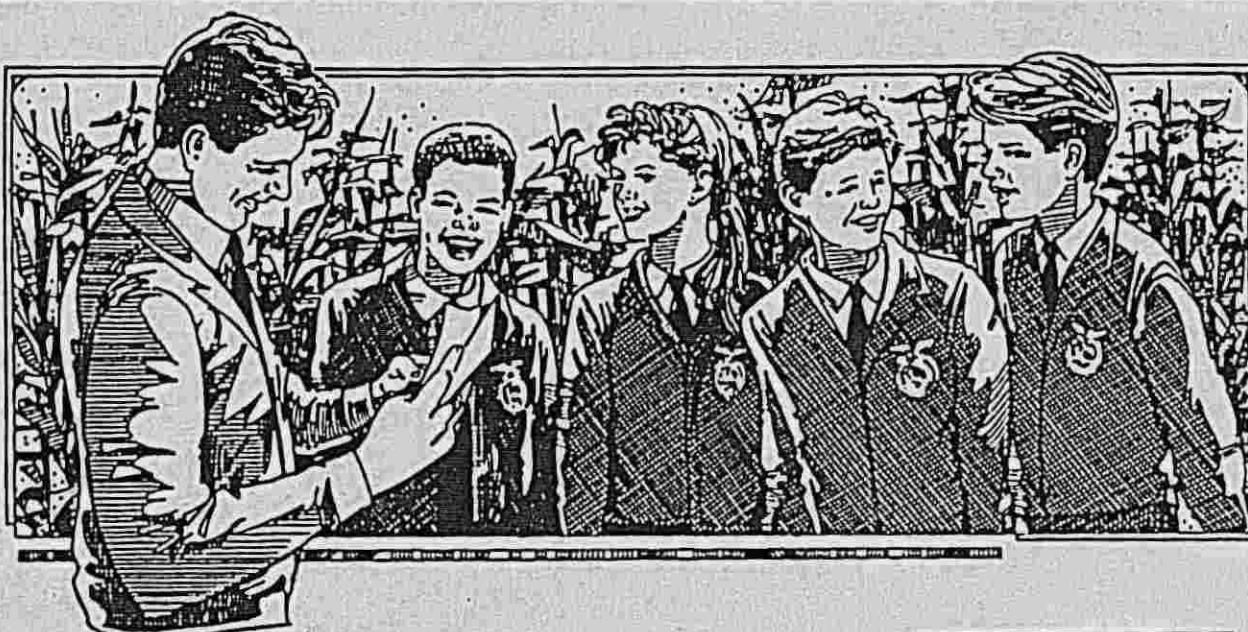

December 21) You just may opt for an early weekend as opportunity arises. If you're willing to be less dominating and go with another's program, you may actually get a glimpse of nirvana. The real question is, Sag, can you let go of your need to control? Hope so ... for you.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Your amorous ways keep coming out all week long at the most inopportune moments. Get back to your old practical self and take care of the "musts" before the weekend, when you launch into a very special and loving period. The initiation starts on Valentine's Day.

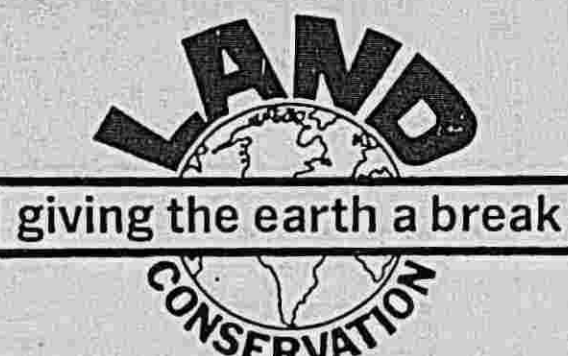

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You're slow getting started this week, but once you do, you're a force to be dealt with. Choose to share your wildest thoughts with a loved one. Imagine the results and you understand why you're so exhausted this weekend. Never fear, you come back again, in even better form.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You can talk a blue streak this week. If you expect changes, you are likely to find yourself glum as the weekend appears. Why not accept what is and give another the space to move and grow? You can kindle romance to its true passionate levels that way.

Cruise to Europe by Freighter

PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Does crossing the Atlantic by freighter conjure up visions of eating gruel served on a tin plate and spending the night in a hammock strung between a couple of crates?

Picture instead an air conditioned suite with double beds, large windows, separate sitting area and private bath. You'll dine on top cuisine with the ship's officers.

There's also a private passengers lounge, library and swimming pool which you will have to share with all of 12 other passengers.

Don't, however, expect the kind of activities found on today's passenger cruise ships. About the most you can expect in the way of entertainment on a freighter is a piano and hopefully a passenger that can play it.

So let's get to the details of what a freighter cruise is all about.

Most passenger carrying freighters offer transatlantic sailings to Europe. A typical cruise is from 11 to 13 days one way. Round trip cruises last approximately 32 days which included several days at a port in Europe during which your ship serves as your hotel. If you want to extend your stay, you can arrange to book return passage on a later sailing.

A one way crossing runs from $1,500 to $2,000 per person. A round-trip cruise is priced about twice that amount. Good news for you singles. Unlike cruise-ships, freighters usually don't charge a single supplement.

Since you are sailing on a cargo carrying freighter, you can even take your car along! That isn't included as free luggage, though. Figure about another $1,000.

A freighter cruise can be an exciting and educational way to travel to Europe. I would, stress, however, a freighter should not be compared to today's modern cruise ships. It's true that a suite on a freighter is usually more luxurious than a typical cruise ship cabin and, with only 12 other passengers, crowds are not a problem. Still many people would find 12 days on a freighter boring, while others would find it to be an experience of a lifetime.

Valentines

and secretly married young couples, legend says.

Folklore also speaks of Valentine as an early Christian imprisoned by the Romans for refusing to worship their gods. According to the tale, Valentine had made friends with many children who after his imprisonment tossed loving notes between the bars of his cell window, perhaps an explanation for today's custom.

History reports that Valentine was executed on Feb. 14 about A.D. 269. In A.D. 496, Saint Pope Gelasius I named Feb. 14 St. Valentine's Day.

In Norman French, spoken in Normandy during the Middle Ages, the word galantine means gallant or lover. The resemblance of the saint's name and the word is attributed as one reason causing people to think of St. Valentine as the special saint of lovers.

Some historians trace the custom of sending verses on Valentine's Day to Frenchman Charles, Duke of Orleans. Captured by the English during the Battle of Agincourt in 1415, he was imprisoned in England but on St. Valentine's Day sent his wife a rhymed love letter from his cell in the Tower of London.

Many customs surrounding the holiday involved ways single women could learn who their future husbands would be. Englishwomen of the 1700s wrote men's names on scraps of paper, rolled each in a little piece of clay and dropped them all into water. The first one to surface was supposedly the name of the woman's true love.

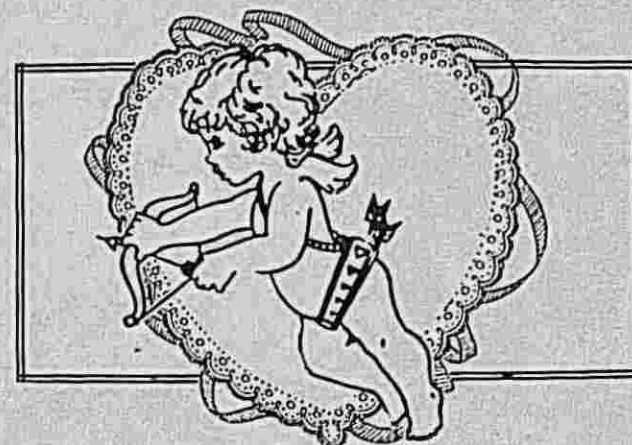

A more mystical ritual was also practiced in the 1700s. Unmarried women would pin five pay leaves to their pillows on the eve of Valentine's Day—one to the center of the pillow and one to each corner. If the charm worked, they saw their future husbands in their dreams.

One of the oldest customs had men writing names of women on slips of paper and drawing them from a jar. Groups of friends would meet, draw names, then for several days each man wore his valentine's name on his sleeve, hence the saying, wearing his heart on his sleeve. The woman whose name was drawn became his valentine and he paid special attention to her.

Valentine gifts at the time were not flowers or candy. In some areas, a young man gave his valentine a pair of gloves. Wealthy men gave fancy balls to honor their valentines.

In Denmark, men would send pressed white flowers, called snowdrops, to their valentine for good luck; however in Scotland, snowdrops meant just the opposite. Danish men also sent a gaekkebrev (joking letter). According to the custom, the sender writes a rhyme but doesn't sign his name. Instead he signs the valentine with dots: one for each letter of his name. If the receiver guesses his name, he rewards her with an Easter egg on Easter. The custom is also practiced in some areas of Great Britain.

Comic valentines first entered the holiday during the mid-1800s. Popular through the early 1900s, many people sent "penny dreadfuls," which read something like this: 'Tis all in vain your simpering looks, /You never can incline, /With all your bustles, stays and curls, /To find a valentine." They sold for a penny and have become collector's items.—by

Quality, ample portions a Hidden Cove trademark

"Quality and large portions," is how owner Gus Kotsiopoulos characterizes his Hidden Cove Restaurant & Bar at 926 S. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville.

"Almost every time they have to take a doggie bag home," Gus said.

As the name suggests, the Hidden Cove is a haven for seafood lovers and offers four or five fresh fish specials each day.

Whitefish, rainbow trout, orange roughy, lobster, scallops, shrimp, clams, oysters, crab — you name it — the Hidden Cove has it the way you like it.

While the surf offerings are tempting, the turf selections are equally delicious. Prime rib is a specialty of the house.

Other delights include New York strip steak, filet mignon, ribs, veal, frog legs and chicken.

The Hidden Cove is offering the best of both worlds — lobster and prime rib — as a Valentine's Day special.

A wide range of salads and sandwiches make the Hidden Cove a great place for a quick — or leisurely — and economical lunch.

A special of the month is the complete all-you-can-eat Sunday breakfast feast for just $4.25 ($3 for kids under 10). It runs from 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. and features freshly sliced on-the-bone ham.

Free appetizers are served from 3 until 9 p.m. weekdays.

Bring the family: A reasonably priced kids menu makes it a bargain.

The fully-stocked lounge features two TV's, and they're usually tuned into sporting events.

Gus and the Hidden Cove will be celebrating a 15th anniversary this year. In that time, a reputation for good food and value has been established.

"We have the best prices in town — both food prices and liquor prices," Gus said.

The Hidden Cove is open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. The lounge is open until midnight Monday through Saturday and until 10 p.m. Sunday.

New training device

Robert Kodera of Twin Lakes, Wis., shows off the Caidance Apparatus. The device allows four youngsters to work on soccer skills. Wauconda Twp. Soccer Assn. purchased four such devices.

Soccer device promotes safety, skill development

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When 500 youngsters in the Wauconda Twp. soccer Assn. report for the first practices this spring, they will be using a new device which the inventor believes stresses safety and efficiency.

"We're very pleased with them. It gives four kids an opportunity to get time on the ball and tells them if they are kicking it correctly," Sally Lubeno, said.

The soccer association purchased four Caidance apparatus, a system which a Twin, Lakes, Wis. resident has obtained a patent. Lubeno said the coaches and parents have been pleased with the early returns.

"I had a mom say that her daughter learned more in one hour than she did in a season of games and practices," Lubeno said.

The device was used in all of the age groups last fall in Wauconda, including the "Tiny Kickers" (pre-school and kindergarten) right through the under-14's. Kodera said he stressed the safety aspect of Caidance, which has been in the planning stages since 1978.

"They're not using good technique. They're damaging the ankles and the knees," Kodera said of the traditional soccer teaching methods.

The center of the Caidance is an adjustable structure, providing an exercise device that can be used to develop muscle strength and reflexes and within a compact time frame. The device is made of Polyethylene, which adds to its durability.

The four players can be working on different kicks at the same time.

"What I am looking at is safety and getting quality movements," Kodera said.

Kodera said he has been spreading the word on the new teaching device through brochures mailed around the country.

"If we could accelerate the technique, we could put all the effort into working on skills," Kodera said.

As Kodera kicked the ball, he pointed out that the popping sound means he is kicking it correctly.

The machine may be used generally along a horizontal or inclined plane. It can be adjusted in height to define different angular elevations of a path, determining the rebounding speed of a ball. It folds compactly.

Soccer is not its only use, as it could be used as a therapy tool for senior citizens, Kodera said.

Women's network hosts seminar

Barrington—The Women's Home-based Business Network (WHBN) will host an educational seminar by Carol Pietrus on Effective Advertising and Direct Mail on Monday, Feb. 17 from 9:15 to 11 a.m. A sought after speaker, Pietrus addresses such topics as advertising strategies, direct mail and mail order. Her audiences include associations, colleges and Chambers of Commerce. She appears in several editions of "Who's Who" including the 1991 "Who's Who in American Women." The location is the Barrington Methodist Church, 311 S. Hough St. WHBN offers women entrepreneurs camaraderie, networking and a free exchange of ideas. For information call Beverly at (708)843-8789.

Waxler announces move, expansion

Vernon Hills—The Waxler Co. has moved its headquarters to a new, expanded facility in Vernon Hills. Waxler's new headquarters will be located 25 minutes from O'Hare Airport and will include a "state of the art" kitchen and auditorium. Started over 30 years ago, the Waxler Co. is one of the largest and best known foodservice brokers in the country. The company represents over 8,000 products from manufacturers such as Borden Foods, Clorox, Quaker Oats, Rich's, Tropicana and Tyson. The Waxler Co.'s clients include over 300 food distributors in Illinois and northwest Indiana.

Bank of Waukegan reports increase

Waukegan—Northern States Financial Corp. of Waukegan, holding company for the Bank of Waukegan, First Federal Bank, fsb and Northern States Trust Co., reported an increase in fourth quarter earnings of 28.3 percent to $1,011,000 or $1.14 per share, compared to $738,000, or $.89 per share a year earlier.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1991, the $400 million asset company earned $3,675,000, or $4.12 per share, compared to $3,863,000, or $4.38, in the period last year.

Northern States had Dec. 31 non-performing loans of $3.2 million, or 1.30 percent of loans, down from 1.82 percent of loans on Sept. 30.

The operating results reflects the July 1, 1991, acquisition of First Federal Bank, fsb., Waukegan. The acquisition was accounted for as a pooling-of-interest and as a result, the prior period results have been restated to reflect the transaction.

Never too early to need an estate plan

by J. MONTGOMERY and BOB MIDDLETON

Estate planning is easy to put off; often younger clients think it is "too early" to plan their estates, or that their estates are "too small" to need planning. Here are some good reasons why you should plan your estate now:

- Without an estate plan, state laws determine who inherits your assets: they could pass to an estranged relative or a very young child. With an estate plan, you decide who receives a share of your assets and when.

- Without an estate plan, the court appoints administrators to manage and distribute your assets: administrators may not share your ideas. With an estate plan, you decide who will manage your estate.

- Without an estate plan, administrative costs and unnecessary taxes can eat into your assets. With an estate plan, you can plan to reduce or avoid taxes and administrative expenses.

- Without an estate plan, the court appoints a adequate to cover new issues that confront you when you are planning not only for yourselves but for your children.

You must select a guardian for your minor child. The decision of who will raise your child, instilling in him or her the values and attitudes that you think are important, will have the most far-reaching effect on the child of any decision that you make.

Courts will usually honor the wishes of a parent choosing a guardian for a minor, but if those wishes have not been expressed in writing, the court is free to choose whomever it thinks appropriate, even if such guardian is not the one you would have chosen. You must take the affirmative step of protecting your child's future through the thoughtful process of nominating a guardian in your will or you wishes will never be known.

guardian for your child. With an estate plan, you select a guardian for your child.

Aside from the issue of taking control of your life to make these decisions, events in your life may occur that take control and make decisions for you. You should recognize some of these "life changes" that call for you to take control and make a plan:

- Your marital status has recently changed. If you have recently married, you

- You have sold your home or purchased a new home. The title to the real estate needs to be reviewed to make sure it is appropriate to your estate plan. Also, for most estates, the house is one of the largest assets. You need to be sure that you have planned so that the family can continue in the home if something should happen to you.

- A new child has been added to your family. Especially for younger couples, this "life event" which brings such joy also brings added responsibilities. Your old estate plan may not be

North Shore signs honored Personnel

North Shore Sign Co. of Libertyville was honored recently for excellence in sign design by the Illinois Sign Assoc.

The company received seven awards, based on a weighed criteria of overall design, compatibility with surroundings, selection of materials and creativity, as part of the association's annual Sign Design Competition.

North Shore received seven awards, placing in five of the eight categories of outdoor signage judged, receiving three first place awards, one second and two third.

In the category of non-illuminated exterior signs, North Shore received first place honors for its entry of the redwood sandblasted display for Scott Byron & Co, in Lake Bluff, which featured a unique wood architectural support column. The company received third place honors in the same category for the Timberlane Estates sign in Libertyville.

In the category of illuminated exterior signs, North Shore received second place honors for its entry of Saluto's Pizza Pasta in Gurnee, which featured colorful graphics and a unique cabinet construction.

Third place honors were received in the same category for the Bayridge Court Shopping Center signage, on Green Bay Rd. in Waukegan, which featured a pylon sign with a clay tile roof, matching the design of the building.

North Shore received first place honors in the category of integrated sign systems, for its entry of the sign package for Acorn Self Storage in Mundelein, and for a van/truck graphics entry, in the category of vehicle lettering and graphics. The awards were presented to Duane Laska, vice president of the firm at the association's winter meeting, held in Springfield.

The Illinois Sign Assoc. is an 80 member organization of outdoor sign manufacturers, designer firms and suppliers, dedicated and committed to professionalism in the sign industry.

North Shore has consistently placed in the five year history of the association's design competition, this year as the prime winner.

A Solution
(and Glasses, Too!)

A new system of keratorefractive surgery may allow you to reduce or eliminate your dependency on glasses or contact lenses through permanent, predictable vision correction. Dr. William S. Fagman of Regional Eye Surgery Associates now makes this precise technology available to correct nearsightedness through radial keratotomy (RK) surgery.

Dr. Fagman does the surgery in the office. No hospital costs, no hospital hassles. Drops are used to numb the eye. No shots, no injections. A one-time global fee covers everything — even post-operative medications!

Now doesn't this sound like a solution for you?

Attend our next Free Seminar!

Learn more about keratorefractive surgery at our next free seminar sponsored by Regional Eye Surgery Associates. Dr. Fagman will explain the procedures, and tell you if you are a candidate.

Wolves in Lake County? Well, maybe one or two

Lakeland Newspapers

Shy, determined, hearty, fast, independent and able to engage in chemical warfare, wolves have become a trendy subject among animal rights activists and opponents of deer culling in Lake County forest preserves.

A wolf pack requires an average home range of about 250 square miles, according to Lake County Forest Preserve Wildlife Biologist Frank Drummond. The entire county is 457 square miles, he said.

"They range over a large area and require undisturbed, practically wilderness areas. So much of Lake County is either in metropolitan areas or subdivided. There's just not enough land to support a pack of wolves," he said.

However in Minnesota, the grey wolf, native to the upper midwestern and eastern states, reportedly covers territories of only 36 to 150 square miles with one- or two-mile-wide overlapping strips of land which function as a buffer zone between home turfs. The strips are entered by wolves mainly to renew their claims. Studies show deer living in the buffers are not threatened though they may be weak and easy prey.

A wolf can go for weeks without eating and can sprint 35 mph. They are big: males grow to 115 pounds and females to 95 pounds. Typically, packs number from five to 10. They have a hierarchy determined by strength. The strongest pair breed and prevent lesser wolves from procreating. To do so, the top female emits a pheromone that stops ovulation in others. A new pack forms when a wolf leaves its family to establish its own territory. Research shows one Minnesota wolf walked 550 miles before settling down.

There are no reports of wolves killing humans. People have, however, been injured by wolves when the animals were provoked, research shows.

Fear, hate and loathing for the wolf was brought to this country by European settlers who did their best to force the wolf into conflict with humans by destroying habitat and decimating the animal's source of food. When settlers began raising livestock, wolves had little choice but to prey on them.

"What are people really afraid of?" asked Fremont Township resident Shiela Cameron, who has championed the return of the wolf to Illinois. "People before my generation decided to wipe out the wolf. I think it's the responsibility of this generation to bring them back."

The native of Northville, Mich. and new mother grew up in an area where wolves were brought as part of an airlift program. "If they can do it with our neighbors, there's no reason why they can't do it in Illinois," she said.

The urbanization of the county is a factor deterring some county board members from supporting a move to bring grey wolves into the area. However, seemingly, there is at least one already here.

Fremont Township resident Ray Jorgenson claims two sightings of a wolf in the area in as many years. "I was taking the dogs out for a walk and he was up in our front yard where there are trees. He was just standing there. I had my dogs on leashes. As I walked back, he walked away. He wasn't hurrying. His tracks were 22-inches between paw prints," he said.

The size of the paw prints indicated the animal was about 100 pounds, he said. "He's not a coyote because a coyote's not that big," he said. The second sighting was along Gilmer Road. Jorgenson said other area residents have also seen the wolf cutting through the field.

Jorgenson raises a small flock of sheep on his 11 acre homestead not far from Hawley and Erhart roads. There's a lot of space out there," he said. "There's enough open space and deer around here to support wolves. I could see reintroducing a wolf around here. They don't cause any problems. They aren't going to go out eating dogs and cats. We have sheep and they aren't bothered," he said.

The myth of a wolf in sheep's clothing has been associated more with sexual undertones than fear of physical harm from the animal. By legend, Romulus and Remus, the founders of Rome, were nurtured as babes by a female wolf. Eskimos as well as Native Americans admired and learned from the predator. With none of the negative connotations associated with werewolves, American folklore tells of men who shifted from human to wolf form.

As wildlife advocates across the nation investigate the possibility of reintroducing wolves to areas from which the animals were previously exterminated or driven from, a new myth arises: that wolves harvest only sick, old and weak animals, thereby keeping ecosystems balanced and prey animals healthy.

In fact, as reported by National Wildlife magazine, wolves have large appetites and will "not flinch from tearing off hunks of flesh from living deer. They will kill any moose, elk or deer that they can catch, not just the old and sick. Once in a while, they kill more than they can eat; occasionally they kill each other. And they do not always keep prey populations in perfect balance. They are, however, far from being savage, bloodthirsty marauders. No real wolves ever leapt into troikas to snatch babies from the arms of terrified Russian mothers."

Wildlife champion Davida Terry, a Lake County Board candidate from the 18th district, does not favor introducing wolves into the area "because of man's interference in the natural balance of things. There are no wolves here, but I would not rule out the possibility that there can be," she said.

County Board member Deloris Axelrod, who has been outspoken against culling of deer in the forest preserves, said she is "more afraid of the two-legged kind of animal with a gun rather than the four-legged kind that runs away from people. If there are wolves out there, they should be left alone to restore the balance of nature."

Fearing hysterics from people if they knew wolves were in the forest preserves, she was reluctant to advocate bringing a wolf pack in the area. "I'm afraid the introduction of an animal like a wolf, with its ferocious reputation, would create more problems than it would correct."

However, she said, "Uncontrolled hunters hunting wolves are more of a danger to man and beast than a few wild animals are."

Easing Your Tax Burden

IRS puts also puts money back into pockets

by DICK WINTRODE

Everyone knows that the IRS collects taxes. But did you know we also put money into the pockets of parents who need it? In fact, last year we gave nearly $300 million of "free money" to Illinois residents. I would like to take this opportunity to briefly explain how we do this.

If you are a working parent with at least one child, and have income under $21,250, you may be eligible for Earned Income Credit (EIC). This refundable credit is subtracted from the amount tax you may owe. And guess what? Even if you didn't owe any tax, you may still get money back.

This year the maximum credit you can claim is $2,020, up from $953 in 1990. Also, more of you will be eligible. However, there is some bad news.

Applying for the 1991 credit has become more difficult than for 1990. EIC is now divided into three credits, the basic credit, the health insurance credit, and an extra credit for a child born in 1991. You can claim each credit that applies to you, but you must now file a Schedule EIC, which is new for 1991.

I know that many of you will probably have some trouble completing Schedule EIC since it's a new form. We know what you'll be facing, and we will be here to help.

First, you can get help in person at one of our local offices. We have 10 offices in northern Illinois and our employees will go over the form with you and answer any questions. If going to an IRS office is sites. Here, an IRS trained volunteer will help you one-on-one at over 100 different locations.

Or, if you prefer, you can call us and we can help you over the phone. To obtain help by phone, or learn the location and hours of the nearest IRS office or VITA site, call us at (312)435-1040.

Let me tell you about the easiest way we can help let us figure the EIC for you. Simply fill out either Form 1040 or Form 1040A and Schedule EIC Part II, "Information About Your Two Youngest Qualifying Children," and Part III "Other Information," and send it in. We'll do the rest.

Let me give you an example of how much the EIC can be worth to you:

Bill and Sue, a married couple, have three children, Bobby, age 11, Barry, age 9, and Benny, 8 months of age. Their adjusted gross income was $16,378 during 1991. Based on the above, they are eligible to receive the following amount in EIC:

Because of the two older children, they would receive $602 for the basic credit; due to the birth of baby Benny in 1991, they will receive $174;

they provided health insurance coverage for all the children;

they will be eligible to receive $209.

Therefore, Bill and Sue will receive a total EIC of $985 for 1991.

In the past, some eligible families didn't file for this credit because they thought they would lose some welfare benefits available to them. Let me assure you that receiving EIC will have no effect on Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC); Medicaid; Supplemental Social Security Income (SSI); Food Stamps; and low income housing.

I have some more good news about EIC. You can get up to $1,192, the basic credit for one child, in advance for 1992. Here's how it works. File a Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate," with your employer. Your employer will pro-rate your advanced credit throughout the year. As a result, you will get extra money in each paycheck.

If you receive the advance EIC, you will have to file Form 1040 or Form 1040A next year to report the money received and to take advantage of any additional parts of the EIC for which you qualify.

For more information on EIC, call 1(800)829-3676 and ask for Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit."

An IRS-trained volunteer can help you with your taxes. FREE. Just call 1-800-TAX-1040.

Quick response time foils Fox Lake robber

Lakeland Newspapers

Nine minutes.

That's how long it took police to chase down and nab a man who robbed the Second Federal Savings and Loan Association in Fox Lake Tuesday afternoon.

"The thing went down textbook," said Fox Lake police Lt. Jim Busch. "They did exactly what they're trained to do."

Arrested was James Gornick, 60, of Ottawa, who was charged with two Class X felonies, armed robbery and armed violence.

Busch said Gornick entered the bank at the intersection of Rte. 12 and Grand Avenue just after noon.

Lisa DiNatale, a teller in the bank, said the robber approached the window being manned by branch manager Allen Sturges. He asked for two rolls of quarters and then demanded money in large denominations.

"That's when I heard a ruckus going on," DiNatale said. "And that's when I hit the alarm."

DiNatale said Sturges handed over $560, which the robber put into a blue duffel bag.

Although she never saw the .38 revolver police say Gornick used in the robbery, DiNatale said she was scared.

"I was scared to death," she said. "When I saw Allen's face, I knew something was up. It happened so fast. I guess we did what we're supposed to do — we stayed calm."

When Gornick left the bank, Sturges jumped over the counter and followed him out the door, hoping to get a description of the car or a license number.

As the thief came out the door, he bumped into Bill Gross of the neighboring Ace Hardware. Both Sturges and Gross were ready with a description for police.

While fleeing to his car on foot, Gornick reportedly dropped his gun and had to stop and pick it up.

An off-duty Lake County Sheriff's Department deputy saw the commotion from the adjacent White Hen Pantry, and he alerted other police via his car radio at 12:07 p.m.

"If the deputy would not have been there in his unmarked car with a radio, we might not have caught him," Busch said.

A Fox Lake police unit immediately gave chase but lost Gornick's car briefly. With several units in the hunt, Gornick was finally stopped and taken into custody at 12:16 near the intersection of Rte. 12 and Arlington Road.

"He was passive — he offered no resistance," Busch said.

Gornick has an "extensive" police record, Busch said, including serving at least part of sentences of 30, 18, 15, three and two years for armed robbery. He's been out of prison for two years since serving his last sentence.

Busch said since Gornick is a career criminal, the sentences could be enhanced to 30-60 years instead of 15-30.

Fox Lake police Lt. Edward Garretsen, who's leading the investigation, was in Waukegan for a bond hearing at press time. Busch said there may be no bond set in this case.

The quick apprehension was the result of teamwork between the Fox Lake, county and state police departments, Busch said.

"Everything worked beautifully," Busch said of the collar. "The cooperation between departments was fantastic. I can't pat them on the back enough. I'm so proud of them I could holler."

Court Services needs volunteer probation officers

The Division of Court Services Volunteer in Probation Program Lake County, Illinois has positions available for people who are seeking experience in volunteering for the court system.

The VIP Program originated in 1971 to assist the Adult Probation Dept. with the supervision of persons probation. Citizens' involvement in the program has made a great impact on the whole criminal justice system. The volunteer program strives to reduce the community crime rate and prevent recidivism by assigning volunteer probation officers to work one-on-one with probationers.

Young adults who are placed on probation are often individuals without good role models or support. A volunteer assists probationers by supporting, encouraging, and assisting them in the problem areas which have contributed to their criminal behavior.

Training sessions are scheduled for March, for any prospective volunteers. Contact Robyn McGarrigle for further information at (708)360-6454 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

An Area Guide to Home Design, Remodeling and Real Estate

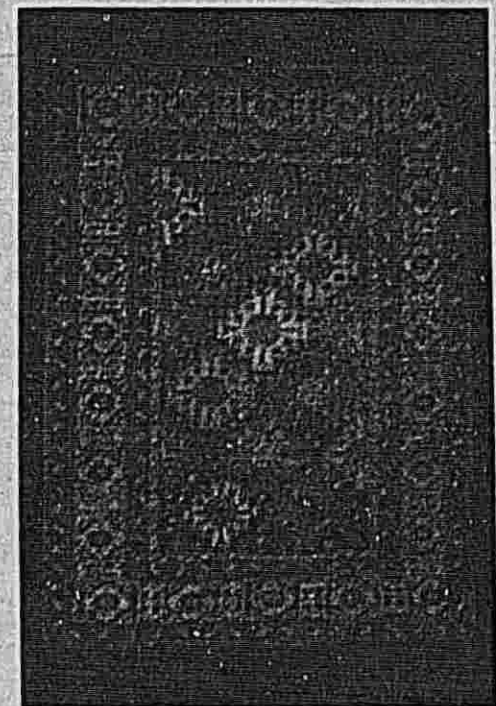

Large carpet above was hand-knotted in the city of Shirvan in the Caucasus. It was created in about 1900 and measures 61 3/4" by 48 1/8". Top left carpet was hand-knotted in the Caucasus in the late 19th or early 20th century. It was created in either the city of Daghestan or Shirvan and measures 65 1/4" by 44 7/8". Carpet at right was hand-knotted in the city of Shirvan created in about 1900 and measures 61 3/4" by 48 1/8". All carpets are being adapted as part of the Art Institute of Chicago Collection of Near Eastern Carpets. Photos courtesy of Nancy Finn of the Art Institute of Chicago.

The Art Institute of Chicago has an exclusive licensing agreement that has been granted to the Minasian Rug Corp., one of the largest oriental rug concerns in the United States, based in Evanston. The agreement enables the Minasian Rug Corp. to create adaptations of Near Eastern Carpets and European tapestries from the Art Institute of Chicago's collection. Christa Thurman, curator of the Art Institute's Dept. of Textiles and Armen Minasian, CEO of the Minasian Rug Corp. (MRC), are directing this collaboration. For the first time in the department's 30 year history, high quality hand-woven adaptations of their historic woven and knotted treasures will be available to grace a limited number of homes and offices around the world.

The project consists initially of 12 carpets and three tapestries, hand-knotted and woven in the Middle East and Europe. Some of the carpets are well over 300 years old and in remarkably good condition.

A team of rug experts including Carnig Minasian, rug historian and president of the retail division of MRC, Gregory Jorjorian, president and COO of MRC, Armen Minasian, Christa Thurman and her staff, examined the entire collection and selected carpets and tapestries to begin this project.

Four of the selected carpets that will comprise the first set of the Art Institute Collection, were made between the 17th and 19th centuries in the Caucasus, region in south eastern European USSR located between the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea. Two other carpets were produced in India in the early 1900's.

The Minasian Rug Corp. has interests in rug weaving cooperatives in the Peoples Republic of China and in Romania. They have selected the Harmon Weaving Cooperative in Harmon, Romania to reproduce the initial series.

Two designers and two weavers from Harmon are in the U.S. to assist in the design process and to begin knotting samples. Melinia Vlad and Camelia Mertic, two of Harmon's best designers, are painstakingly graphing patterns for each carpet, knot by knot. Matching pattern and color exactly to each strand of yarn on the original carpet, each knot is counted and hand painted with a primitive wooden brush.

Once the graphs are completed and examined for authenticity, they will be brought to the Harmon Weaving Cooperative to begin weaving. Each carpet will take approximately six months to complete once it has been strung onto the loom. It takes approximately one million hand-tied knots to bring out the color and patterns clearly.

Round up old newspapers in handy storage unit

Now you can keep your old newspapers neatly corralled until you're ready to bundle them up for recycling. With its simple styling and natural wood finish, this handsome storage unit will look right at home in your living room, family room or den.

And by laying twine across the bottom of the empty container, it's also easy to tie and remove the papers when the bin is full. The unit will hold up to a month's supply of newspapers.

The container is made from standard size western softwood lumber and requires no special woodworking skills or tools to build.

For the top and bottom frame you will need four lengths of 1x2, each 15 in. long, and four more lengths 16-1/2 in. long. Assemble the frames to form two rectangles 15 in. wide by 18 in. long. Glue the joints and secure with 1-1/2 in. screws.

(Tip: When you're working with small-dimension lumber, it's a good idea to predrill both nail and screw holes to avoid splitting the wood.)

for the sides, each 14-1/2 in. long. (For a more finished appearance, you might want to cut the tops of the posts at an angle.) Mark the location of four 1x1 posts at each end, allowing approximately 3 in. between posts. To be certain the posts will be vertical, transfer the marks to the upper frame. Glue and nail the 1x1's to the inside of the frame so the bases of the posts are even with the bottom of the lower frame. Position the tops of the posts 1/2-in. below the top of the frame.

To complete the base, cut four lengths of 1x1, each 15 in. long. Space the 1x1's evenly across the base, as shown, then glue and nail to the bottom frame. Finish the wood with one or more coats of polyurethane varnish.

Optional: To keep the twine in place as you load the newspapers, make small saw cuts in the outer edge of the upper frame. Make the cuts approximately 1/4-in. deep in the center of all four sides. Then, before you start putting in the papers, lay two lengths of twine across the bottom and secure the ends in the slots.

Handy container stores newspapers in style until ready for recycling. Made from standard-size softwood lumber, requires minimum woodworking skills to complete.

Decorating

Q: I have a lot of decorating to do, but no time and every time I begin, it's so overwhelming. How do I contact a decorator and what is the procedure in working with one?

A: With today's overwhelming choices in home furnishings, a professional decorator is no longer a luxury but a necessity. Here are a few tips to help you enjoy working with the decorator of your choice.

•Do your homework! What are your color preferences? Styles? Basic priorities?

•Look through magazines, what catches your eye?

•Give some thought to your budget, this guideline will save you lots of valuable time.

•Think about your functional needs and your decorating desires for your room or rooms.

•Ask for references and experience of the Decorator.

Working with a professional, caring decorator is truly a pleasurable experience. Just remember, effective communication is the key to accomplishing each and every one of your decorating dreams.

Q: I've just purchased new custom draperies, how often do I need to clean them?

A: As little as possible. Vacuuming is a must. You should do this as often as you vacuum your upholstered furniture. Dry-clean as little as possible. When draperies are dry-cleaned the fabric loses some of its luster, and stiffening for pleats is weakened. They never quite hang the same way. Never put your draperies in the washing machine.

Its too rough on the drapery.

Q: I have a powder room that stumps me, any suggestions?

A: The powder room is usually the smallest and most ignored room in the house. Because you spend little time there be bold, daring and dramatic.

If you've been afraid to use dark rich colors or a bold print, this may be the place for it. A light usually must be turned on because of a lack of windows, so don't be afraid of dark color. Creme tones don't make a 5x5 room any bigger! Accessories are important to finish the look. Add pictures, candles, nic-nacs to the corner of the sink.

Put up a shelf, hang a plant (silk of course). Have fun with this little room!

Q: Can I use different colored carpeting throughout my house or does it have to be the same?

A: As a general rule, carpet in rooms which meet at the doorway, should be the same color. By using the same color for joining carpets, you will provide a smooth uninterrupted look that's pleasing to the eye. Abrupt changes in color tend to interrupt the natural flow from room to room. However, if the color variations are subtle, such as pale pastels or light beige tones, the different carpets may serve to compliment each other.

Q: I want to give my living room a fresh new look but I don't want to redecorate the whole room, any suggestions?

A: Assuming your furniture is in good shape and the color is not out of date, I would start with the window treatment. Color usually sets the mood for a room. Upon examining the room, pull a color that isn't so dominant to give this change. Put this color along with a pattern into the window treatment.

Dollar for dollar, the windows will create the most impact in a room. Also use the same pattern or companion print on a table skirt or pillows for the sofa.

Basic pointers on nails and how to use them

Do-it-yourself magazines abound on today's newsstand, urging novice carpenters to tackle any number of home improvements. "Build The Deck of Your Dreams in Just Two Weeks." "Savor the Pleasure of a Victorian Porch-Plans Inside." Cover titles lure us to try our hand at projects with wood—to enhance our homes, advance our skills, and give us the satisfaction of a job well done.

After all, what could be more basic than using hammer and nails to whack a few boards together? Everyone can do it—right? That's just the problem. Not everyone can do it—right.

Fastening with hammer and nails is a skill that's taken too much for granted, resulting in a great many wood structures that are not as strong or durable as they should be, and too many builders who become frustrated with their efforts.

It's a fact that an article made of wood is no stronger than the joints that hold it together. So learning the basics of wood joinery before tackling a major project is time well spent for the beginning woodcrafter. There are hundreds of excellent books out there, in libraries and bookstores, but here are a few basic pointers to get you started.

Tooling Up
Hammer: Buy the best hammer you can afford, since your safety and the quality of your work depend on it. A curved-head claw hammer, with drop-forged steel head that is permanently bonded to a steel or fiberglass handle is the strongest type available. For rough construction, a 16-, 20-, or 22-oz. hammer is best. For finish work, choose a 12-, or 16-oz. hammer.

Nails: High-quality, American-made steel nails offer uniform, true-centered heads, straight shanks, and sharp points. Select nails of the correct type, length, gauge and finish for your project. All-purpose Common and Box nails come in the broadest array of sizes, but specialty nails for specific tasks can make a job much easier. Be sure to specify galvanized nails for outdoor work.

Nail Set: A small hand tool that resembles a punch, and is used to countersink the head of a finishing nail below the wood's surface. The hole is then filled with wood compound, smoothed and finished with stain or paint. Nail sets come in graduated sizes.

Awl: A small hand tool, much like an ice-pick, used to create starter holes for nails.

Brad Awl: A clever, hand-held tool with a magnetic tip that can pick up and hold a single wire brad, and drive it into wood with a single stroke.

Safety Glasses: Always wear protective eye gear when driving or extracting nails. If extracting a large quantity of nails, protective work gloves are also advised.

Basic Nailing Tips

Keep your head still and your eye on the nail, if you want to keep your thumb intact. Don't watch the hammer—watch the nail. Hold the hammer at the end of the handle, not up the shanks, and drive with a steady rhythm, like a pendulum. All action should be in the forearm, not the wrist, with the elbow acting as the fulcrum. At the moment of impact, the handle of the hammer should be at right angle to the nail head, so that nails are driven straight and true.

If splitting the wood along the grain becomes a problem, blunt the tip of the nail slightly with a tap of the hammer. This allows the nail to tear the wood fibers instead of spreading (splitting) them.

If a nail starts to bend when driven, don't try to straighten it. Retract it at once, and start again, in a slightly different place.

For fine finishing work, stop hammering when the nail is just above the surface of the wood. Finish inserting the nail with a nail set.

Extract nails with a pair of pincers, or with the claw end of a claw hammer. Before applying leverage, place a small piece of wood under the hammer head to prevent surface damage to the work.

Effective Nailing Techniques

Face Nailing. Nailing directly through the face or width of a board's surface.

Select a nail that is 2 1/2 to 3 times longer than the thickness of the top board. If several nails need to be placed, stagger them slightly to avoid splitting wood along the grain. If nailing through a board face into the end-grain of another board, use a longer nail, or a grooved nail for secure hold.

Toenailing: Driving nails in on the slant, and at opposite angles to each other. Nails driven at an angle offer greater hold than those driven straight, and by alternating the direction of the slant, an even stronger hold is achieved.

Blind Nailing: Driving a nail so that the head is concealed on the finished surface. Generally used to attach tongue-in-groove lumber (paneling or flooring) to underlying structure by nailing down at an angle through the tongue.

tongue. This technique conceals the nail head, and also prevents gaps between individual pieces of wood.

Gluing of Joints: Application of glue before assembly with nails adds strength to a joint. Use white wood glue beaded or brushed on. Once parts are pressed together, nail the joints, and clean any excess glue with a damp cloth.

Unusual two-story has plenty of extras

Home features three covered porches!

Attention to detail makes this home special! The two-story foyer flows easily into the master suite, formal dining room, and spacious activity room. The activity room includes a large bay window, fireplace with raised hearth, built-in bookcase, wet bar, and access to the back porch, breakfast room, or master bath.

The master bath, which includes a double vanity, garden tub, and separate shower, is unique in that it is accessible from the great room as well as the master bedroom. The master bedroom overlooks the front porch and includes a large walk-in closet.

Also accessible from the great room are the breakfast room and kitchen. The breakfast room overlooks the back porch through a bay window, and the spacious U-shaped kitchen features a convenient work triangle, built-in pantry, and plenty of cabinets. Adjacent to the kitchen are the laundry room, a half bath, and an office or bonus room with built-in bookcase and a closet.

Upstairs, this home has two more bedrooms.

Each has a walk-in closet and a dormer nook. Both rooms share a common bath, and the bath has a separate dressing area with double vanity. The bedrooms are joined by a balcony that overlooks the foyer.

This home is designed for a basement foundation. The basement stairs are accessible from the kitchen and lead to a drive-under double garage.

The exterior of the home is enhanced with horizontal siding, matching shuttered windows and doors, three dormers with arch top multi-lite windows, and three plantation or New Orleans style porches. Each porch includes decorative columns and its own staircase.

This is a computer generated plan. The plan is number 3404. It includes 3,469 sq. ft. of heated area. All W. D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and meet FHA or VA requirements. For further information, write W. D. Farmer, P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga 30345.

Radiant floor heating creeps from under the rug

What's old is what's new again in today's home heating systems.

Radiant underfloor heating was first introduced in the United States after World War II as making a steady comeback, especially in new housing.

Still one of the most common heating systems in many European countries, radiant floor heating was popular in the Northeast during the 1940s and 1950s.

At that time, metal tubing was laid and concrete flooring was poured over it. Unfortunately, the lime in the concrete, improper installation and poor controls began to eat away and disable the systems. These factors, combined with new forced-air heating systems, caused the demise of radiant heating in the mid-sixties.

However, with the advent of durable plastic piping, new high-tech flooring and better construction practices, many consumers are now considering the option of radiant floor heating.

Comfort is the motivating factor for today's more discerning new home buyer. For the most part, people just don't realize they have choices in a heating system. With so much emphasis on efficiency and energy savings, many homeowners are finding the hydronic heating, especially radiant underfloor heating, fits the bill.

Unlike forced-air furnace systems which rely on moving air to deliver heat to a room, radiant heating works by sending warm water from a central boiler through tubing in or underneath the floor.

Radiant heating is a closed loop system. This means that a limited amount of water is circulated through the system over and over again. In fact, most residential systems hold no more than a few gallons of water.

The warm floor radiates its heat into the room at a constant comfortable rate, with little or no temperature difference between floor and ceiling. No bulky baseboard heaters or registers are needed, so furniture can be placed anywhere.

In contrast, most forced-air systems cannot provide a consistent room temperature. Because warm air rises, much of the heat ends up at the ceiling, while the floor remains cool. Uncomfortable drafts, temperature swings and cold spots also can be a problem.

With this type of hydronic heating, however, the temperature of the floor, in most cases is governed by the outdoor temperature and the rate at which heat is lost from the room.

If a thermostat is set at 70 degrees, the floor surface temperature may range from 72 degrees on a mild day to 85 degrees on a very cold day. Generally speaking, the colder the outdoor temperature, the warmer the floor becomes—although it never gets so warm that it makes wearing shoes uncomfortable.

Because heat is delivered at a constant, even rate, users are typically more comfortable at a lower thermostat setting. In addition, an entire house does not necessarily have to be heated at the same temperature. A radiant heating system can be zoned according to area (such as bedroom or living room) with the use of a separate thermostat.

As a result, radiant floor heating generally consumes up to 30 percent less energy than other heating systems. Some radiant heating systems, in certain applications, can use only half the energy of their forced-air counterparts.

One consideration with radiant floor heating is what kind of floor and floor covering will be used in decorating. One thing to keep in mind is that whatever the floor is covered with will impact the level of heat which is emitted into the room.

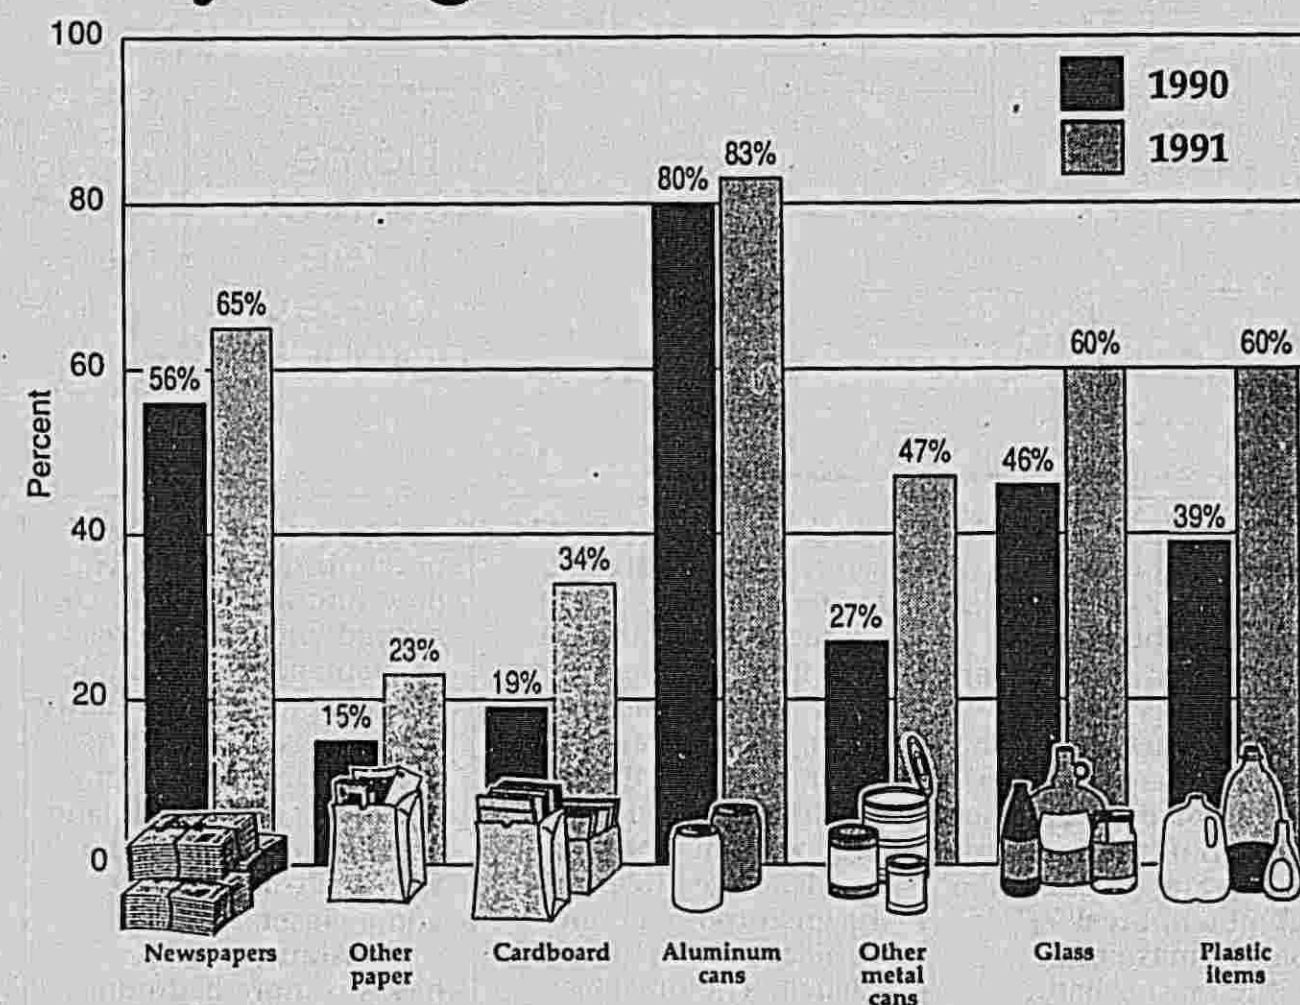

For this reason, surfaces such as linoleum or hard wood are the best choices.

Carpet also may be used, with lower nap plush carpets preferred. Generally speaking the deeper the carpet, the more it inhibits the heat flow from the floor. In addition, thinner, denser pads work much better with radiant floor heating than thicker, urethane pads which are designed to insulate.

Consult a professional heating contractor who has had experience with radiant underfloor heating to decide if this system is right for you.

Get a home-energy audit to stay cozy

A hard-working furnace wastes valuable energy and burns up your money quickly. Though it isn't possible to eliminate all wasteful use of fuel and get every penny's worth of performance, significant fuel and money savings can be achieved when homes are properly insulated.

Virtually every house needs to be weatherized.

Many projects are easy to complete and high-performance products should be used. A few of the projects are obvious: seal leaky windows and doors, insulate walls and ceilings, and wrap hot-water heaters in blanket insulation.

The first step is to find the areas of air leakage. These gaps in your home let in cold air and permit warm air to escape during winter. This makes your furnace work harder. If you have an electric-fired oil burner, you will use more electricity and more oil.

These same gaps let in hot air during the summer, forcing your air conditioner to work harder. This not only increases your electric bill, but it also places an added power drain on the local utility.

A utility's study takes into consideration the style of home, its age and number of occupants. It will look at the heating system to evaluate annual fuel use and cost and it will review the air-conditioning system performance and cost. Utilities often recommend conservation measures, estimate the cost of installation, and estimate annual savings.

The specific conservation actions most often recommended include caulking and weather stripping around doors and windows; insulation for ceilings, walls, floors, ducts and exposed pipes; installation of storm windows (or quality window insulator kits) and storm doors; and using a set-back clock thermostat. Utilities also provide information about the payback period (the amount of time required to recover the cost of the conservation measure) for each weatherization upgrade.

You will save money on utility bills. While it may take several years to recover the cost of some upgrades, homeowners often forget that many of the improvements can add immediately to the market value of the home.

Walk out lower levels offer families extra living space

Garden homes feature extra living space

Many garden homes today feature walk-out lower levels. Hilly terrains enable builders to enhance the designs of these garden homes which are designed to be finished into additional living areas.

Extra high finished ceilings and oversized windows add more light and openness. The utility areas are even planned to maximize livable space.

Buyers can either purchase these homes with levels finished, or they can wait and finish them when they may require extra living space. Finished lower levels not only create extra room for entertaining and living needs, but add value to the home as well.

New choice—wood flooring

Key reasons for choosing the warmth and beauty of wood floorings are:

First, wood flooring products offer the same advanced factory finishes found on most types of sheet vinyl flooring, hence their easy care characteristics.

Second, wood flooring is one of the few flooring products that lasts for generations and yet can be regularly updated as design trends change. This makes wood a very good investment in the long run.

Third, there's a relatively new category of wood flooring, called Longstrip prefinished laminated flooring, that can be permanently installed over most existing kitchen flooring materials, an economical alternative to other products.

Add the fact that wood is naturally hypoallergenic, it doesn't trap dust, pollen, insect eggs and other allergens—means it provides a healthy environment for food preparation and family dining.

Home decorating can be fun

Home decorating doesn't have to cost a lot of money. The following are some ways to add creative touches to your home or apartment without draining your bank account.

For your child's bedroom, think colorful, comfortable and practical. Don't let your "best" decorations be ruined by accidental stains and spills simply because they were out on display at the wrong time.

Instead, try decorating with attractive but more easily replaceable items such as stuffed animals and throw pillows. Cover newly painted walls with drawings or pictures of your child's favorite cartoon and movie characters.

Use plenty of pastel colors to decorate, since they can have a soothing effect. Remember to take proper safety precautions—always place potentially dangerous "hand and mouth-tempting" objects high on shelves and well out of your child's reach.

Decorating the den or family room doesn't have to cost a lot, either. Display your favorite family portraits and other "collector's items" that have been hiding in the basement for years. Instead of nails, use Scotch Removable Mounting Squares to hang certificates, awards, postcards and other lightweight items. The squares contain a pressure-sensitive adhesive on both sides that won't leave holes or scars on most wall surfaces when it's time to "redecorate." Four squares can support weight up to one-half pound.

Brighten your kitchen by making a colorful napkin holder to post conveniently on the wall nearest the kitchen table—it's both a time and space saver. Slightly yellowed or peeled wallpaper, scratches and other "less than perfect" spots can be covered easily with a unique calendar or wall clock that matches the room's decor.

Spruce up master/guest bedrooms with plaques, posters, and decorative mirrors, and replace shower curtains/bathmats to boost bathrooms.

Finally, use your creativity to come up with some additional decorating ideas. Those simple, personal touches really will make a big difference.

THE CLASSIFIEDS

Mother did so much for us.

One of the things mother did that was most helpful was making her funeral arrangements long before she died. She didn't keep it all to herself either. She called us all and described what she wanted. I didn't agree with everything so we worked out something that I would like, too. Then she met with the funeral director and they wrote it down.

She felt good because everything was taken care of and we felt good because we were included and knew how to proceed when the time came. By her planning ahead we were relieved of many concerns at the time of the funeral.

For more information write or call for our free booklet on funeral planning.

Look For Your Dream Home Here In Lakeland Classifieds

1992 DREAM HOME SURVEY

If home designers would just ask me, you may have thought, I could tell them what people really want in a home.

Well, here's your chance. Landmark Designs, in partnership with Lakeland Newspapers is asking you to tell us exactly which features and amenities you would include in your Dream Home. Now in our 15th year of designing homes and writing a home design column, we've learned that our readers can always teach us a thing or two. Or more.

Whether you plan to build a home or not, filling out the form can help clarify your preferences. And it's an opportunity to let your imagination soar, for a change. To make it easy and fun, we've provided a survey form that includes the same questions architects, designers and real estate agents ask to determine clients' wants and needs.

We also encourage readers to attach letters, sketches or any comments that come to mind. We love reading what you send in—the more detailed, the better.

Once the nationwide results of this survey are tallied, Landmark will design a national Dream House. In addition, since area preferences vary widely, we promise to custom design a home to meet the exact specifications preferred by readers of each newspaper we serve. For newspapers with high response, we will come up with small, medium and large designs.

Floorplans and artist's renderings of the Dream Homes will appear on these pages in the spring. The home builders' trade pays close attention to such surveys, so this is a rare chance to let them know what you think.

Following publication of these plans, Landmark will provide a free set of working drawings to the first individual who is willing to build one of the Dream Homes and open it to public display for a limited time.

Mail forms to Landmark Designs, Inc., Dept. 92, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. To receive a personal copy of the National Dream Home Survey results, include $4 to cover the cost of postage and printing. Be sure to include your name and mailing address, and whatever you do, don't give up on your dreams!

A familiar move here, a late comeback there, and peaking at the right time all helped area wrestlers advance to the Barrington sectional this weekend.

Waukegan won the Antioch regional with 174.5 points, followed by Antioch's 150.5. Round Lake, which held second place for a while, was third at 122.5. Grayslake was fourth at 87, Grant fifth with 82 and Warren sixth and Zion-Benton brought up the rear.

At Stevenson, Libertyville won with 193 points, making it a battle for second place. Highland Park topped Carmel 131.5 to 123 while Mundelein was fourth, Lake Forest fifth, Stevenson sixth and North Chicago last.

At Hersey, Lake Zurich was second with 121 points, edging third-place Barrington by two and one-half points.

"That's what we expected. Round Lake is a fine team and we lost to them in duals. All three of our guys (title winners Greg Zalapi at 103, Tim Lehn at 160 and Tom Lehn at 171) have an excellent chance to go downstate," Antioch Coach Ted DeRousse said. "We were eight-for-nine in the finals and that feels good to finish strong."

Tuesday's match with Waukegan was the first time Antioch advanced in the dual portion of post-season.

"Dan LaBarbera (145) has looked especially strong. Kevin Krakowski (171), lost to Mike Feighner of Carmel early in the year and Reed Christensen (189 pound champ) earned two pins," Libertyville Coach Dale Eggert said.

Gaining double revenge was heavyweight Brian Murken. Murken lost to Willie Norman of Mundelein twice, but shut him out 6-0 in the final.

Grayslake's Mike Kearby and Warren's Dave McLellan are the best of friends, and had a chance to get to know each other's moves through summer tournaments. But it was a familiar result when the two clashed at 125 pounds, with Kearby winning in a 1:48 pin.

"It's been my best season by far," Kearby said.

"They're very good friends. Mike is a very dedicated wrestler and a hard worker.

He (McLellan) got a little high and Mike took advantage of it," Grayslake Coach Jon Peterson said.

It took a comeback for Jeremy Carter of Warren to top Kareen Spillman of Waukegan 6-2. Carter was trailing 2-0 until he scored a near fall and reversal.

"I tried to play it cool and see what I could get in terms of points," Carter said of the comeback.

"He's been picking it up since Christmas," Warren Coach Mark Tiffany said of Carter.

Carter had a rough time of it as a sophomore, then had to overcome elbow injuries. "All the stuff he had learned as a sophomore, he put to use. His experience has really helped him," Tiffany said.

Grayslake's Curt Onstad had another battle on his hands with Round Lake's Gary Bailey at 140 pounds. He won 11-7, after the match had been tied 6-6.

Onstad, 34-1, had lost his unbeaten status earlier in the week.

Zalapi started the night with a default win over Joe Kearns of Grayslake. Rams Coach Jon Peterson said Kearns was injured earlier and was being saved for sectionals. Tim Lehn won at 160 over Travis Davis of Waukegan 4-3. Tom won at 189 in a technical fall in the final second over BenBubeck of Zion-Benton.

Ray Deatherage of Round Lake pinned Lynelle Wakefield with 25 seconds left in a tense match. Also earning titles for Round Lake were John Keaskowski, with a pin over Waukegan's Ed Gyrol at 3:07 at 130 pounds and Rusty Nofsinger, who won a 6-4 decision over Rick Johansen of Zion-Benton in overtime.

At Stevenson, Flavio Morales of Mundelein downed Jaime Quijda of Highland Park 10-9 at 103 pounds. Eric Browne of Mundelein, who lost his unbeaten status to Warren's Carter at conference, won the 199 pound title with a fall in 1:17 over Tasos Maroulis of Libertyville.

Derick Noble of Carmel won at 112 pounds with a fall over the NSC champ, Brian Paul of Stevenson, in 1:59. Also winning a title for CHS was Chris Perlitz at 152. He downed Libertyville's Neil Calanca 10-3.

Libertyville sophomore Bob Paulson came into the meet 6-8, unseeded at 135 pounds. He also gained a second, losing to Carmel's Jamil Swift in a fall in 3:32.

Stevenson's highlight came at 140. Alex Neiman, the NSC champ, won over Ryan Greene of Lake Forest 8-3. Neiman won an overtime tilt against Greene at conference.

At Hersey, Lake Zurich's Al Strobl, the defending state title winner at 160 pounds, won at 171 by a pin. Scott Calacci was second at 145, Dan Rote second at 135. Nich Tsiakls was third at 189.

Girls hope to capture that post-season magic

The videotape of the supersectional win over Rockford Boylan at Round Lake may be wearing thin, the mob scene at the court, the comeback from the early 10-point deficit. The photos on the wall are beginning to yellow.

Warren Twp. High School and the rest of the girls basketball teams will be shooting for that post-season glory which came to Warren on a certain February Monday in 1988. Warren beat Boylan that night, 61-54, advancing to the Elite Eight for the first time. They gave a credible showing against Chicago Marshall, up by five at halftime, before fading.

"If there are any kinks in there armour, you let the rest of us know," Grayslake girls basketball Coach Brad Larson said, jokingly, of this year's 21-2 Blue Devils.

Warren was poised to wrap up another North Suburban title Feb. 13 at Fenton before the "real thing" of the playoffs started against North Chicago Feb. 17.

"They are very talented and deep and well-coached," Larson said.

Regional finals, at the sites of the highest seeded teams, will be Feb. 20, with the sectional semis and finals at Round Lake Feb. 25 and 27. Next step is the Maine West super-sectional Feb. 27, a place and time Warren faithful try to forget.

Warren should have no trouble with one-game winner North Chicago Feb. 17, but the most interesting matchup on the first night could be Lake Zurich, the 13th seed, at No. 4 and Northwest Suburban Conference champ Round Lake, or Carmel at No. 8 Grant. Grant, led by Janelle Bullman, has been fighting to stay above the .500 mark, is 12-11.

GIRLS HOOPS by Steve Peterson

One team licking at the chops should be Libertyville. The Wildcats are the third seed, opening the tourney hosting Antioch Feb 18.

Sophomore Sarah Weiss has put together two strong games - 20 points in a 72-31 win over North Chicago and 18 points in a win over Carmel.

"Sarah has started to use the backboard more. She was more of a natural perimeter player but she is doing a nice job making the conversion," Libertyville Coach Tom Murphy said.

Kessel's outlook bright as spiker at Western Ill.

After setting many Mundelein High School volleyball records in a four-year career, Shauna Kessel decided to dedicate her winter time sports efforts to improving her skills.

Participating in a Crystal Lake volleyball club paid off for Kessel, as she signed a national letter of intent to attend Western Illinois University in Macomb.

"I like her values and I got along great with the team," Kessel said of WIU Coach Julie Kartel.

Meanwhile, Courtney DeBolt, of Stevenson, signed with Michigan State. DeBolt helped the Patriots to two state quarterfinalists as the Pats have become a volleyball powerhouse.

Kessel said she liked the emphasis on athletics at the rural campus. She plans on pursuing a career in social work.

"All the schools that contacted her said the skill and talent were there and she could step in. The club volleyball helped her a lot with more exposure," Mundelein volleyball coach Dan Szymkowiak said.

Kessel holds the Mundelein High career serving record of 390 points, 697 for 754. Her 1991 and 1990 seasons are the benchmarks for MHS players in attack, with 566 for 628 in 1991 and 495 for 590 last year. She had 315 kills last year, 253 the year before, the top two individual seasons. For her career, she has 706 kills, far outdistancing second place Rachel Lackie, who had 355.

Kessel made the all-conference volleyball team last year. Mundelein was 20-15-1, losing to Libertyville in the regional final.

When the family gathered to have Shauna sign the letter of intent at a ceremony last week, sister Kandi and brother Kyle may have been wondering what it was like to be recruited. The Kessels are hoping this trend continues.

Girls basketball

It is the second time in a week the two teams will have played.

Stevenson Coach Frank Mattucci believes, yes, you can have fun in girls basketball these days, even when playing the league leader which is gunning for another title.

That was the direction he took when he substituted players at the end of a 51-39 loss to Warren. The defeat dropped Stevenson to 13-10 overall, 8-8 in league play.

"I made the first move. I wanted my kids who were struggling to sit and watch to see what these girls were doing wrong and help them. It is a lesson I picked up at New Trier. It's time to start to let them play. They tried," Mattucci said.

He acknowledged he got frustrated in the final quarter as Warren extended a four-point lead to 17. That's the kind of run Warren has been known to use in the post-season as well.

"We knew it would be tough to come out of here with a win in this place. I did not want my kids to come out of here thinking 'we're no good'. That's not true. 'This will only get us better for regionals and our goal now is to come home with a regional plaque. That's a neat goal to shoot for and a realistic goal,' Mattucci said.

Marelene Elfering came in off the bench for Warren to score 18 points, providing the 'Devils with another outside shooting weapon. Julianne Frankowski, whose confidence continues to build, pumped home 20 points.

In other games, Mundelein, the 15th seed, is at No. 2 Waukegan. In the only non-area game, Zion-Benton hosts Lake Forest.

Getting back to Grayslake, Larson is pleased with the team's progress toward an 13-9 season. The Rams, sixth seed, are expected to have leading scorer Allison Waldenstrom back in the lineup when they host Deerfield Feb. 18.

Grant, Richmond enjoy thrills of close victories

One might call the two games 'The Thrillers Along Rte. 12.'

For one Friday night, a

we had gone through," Grant Coach Tom Maple said.

"We wanted him (Nortiano) to bring the ball up the floor to see what he could create," Maple said. "Johnsburg did a nice job of defense. They had two guys in his face and he made it."

Nortiano, who missed the first third of the season due to illness, has been especially valuable since the Bulldogs lost guard Steve Richford to injury.

Johnsburg (13-8, 6-6) used full-court pressure to force Grant turnovers late. Erich Hoffmann scored 24 points, John Molnar had 14. "We could not stop him. He gives us fits," Maple said of Hoffman.

The win makes it two in one week for Grant, which downed Wauconda 68-59, completing a three-game sweep. Nelson Anderson led the way with 12. "Brian McNally came off the bench and scored 10 points and had several assists and steals," Maple said.

Richmond tried to make it a weekend sweep, but fell to Palmyra Eagle of Wisconsin, 78-73. Gardner had 34 points and Toler had another strong game, 23 points and 13 rebounds.

Grant battles second-place Round Lake away Feb. 14

while Johnsburg hosts Wauconda.

Round Lake (11-10, 8-4) fell to Marian Central 60-51 as the Hurricanes chalked up their first conference title. Round Lake led by 17 points, only to see the home team turn the tide in the second half.

Pat Lejman scored 23 points for Round Lake, whose outside game was relatively shut down. "Pat played one of his better games of the year," Ward said.

Round Lake beat Grant by four, then by 17 points.

BOYS HOOPS

season of frustration came to an end as both Grant and Richmond experienced thrilling wins.

For Grant (6-16, 4-8), it was a 20-foot three-pointer by Lou Nortiano which notched a 67-64 win over Johnsburg. Up Rte. 12 apiece, with a right turn on Rte. 31, and one could catch the Richmond Rockets in celebration as well. Sophomore Jeff Toler hit the winning shot with one second left for a 60-58 win over Hampshire.

"It was a great win. The kids jumped off the bench like we had won the state

Neither team is a factor for the race for second in their respective leagues, and the wins only give them a combined 10-30 record. But for fleeting moments, that did not matter.

Richmond (4-14, 3-6 in the Big Eight Conference) had to have a key hoop by Ray Wilkenson to tie the game at 58 with 14 seconds left. Wilkenson and Toler both had 19 for the winners.

"We were happy to get a shot off and then thrilled we had a chance to win. Lou banked it in. We felt we were deserving after what

Patriots top seedNorth Suburban's rich continue to get richer

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

The powers of the North Suburban Conference stayed that way last week as Stevenson and Warren's boys basketball teams continued to distance themselves from the "Little Eight".

Both teams swept conference weekends as Warren (16-4, 10-1) crushed Antioch 66-31 and Mundelein 72-55. Stevenson (19-1, 11-0) brushed away Mundelein 88-67 and Zion-Benton 89-63. With six games left, third place Lake Forest is a distant 6-6 in loop play. Antioch and Mundelein, which had been competing for third, have fallen into the mid portion of the NSC.

"When you're into the game, you don't realize what is happening. You're looking for the little things," Stevenson Coach Ken Johnson said.

What the "big thing" was all about was a 32-3 run by the Patriots against Mundelein which turned a two-point game to a 30-point blowout. The host Mustangs never knew what hit them.

Chris Coleman, who could be back in the starting lineup when Stevenson battles Libertyville Feb. 14, scored 21 against Mundelein and 20 against Zion-Benton.

Coleman got plenty of help. Jason Justus had two strong games, 14 against Mundelein and 17 against Zion. Eric Roth led the attack at Zion with 24 points after 12 against Mundelein.

Despite the growing lead, Johnson has a healthy respect for the Wildcats, whom they host Feb. 14.

"They've got a good club and their guards have been playing steady for them," Johnson said. "We're still looking to improve. We've seen a lot of improvement in the last few weeks," Johnson said.

Warren took charge of both games with strong second halves. The 19-3 run did the trick against Antioch. Craig Shelton led the way with 17 points. Antioch, led by 12 points from Chris Malec, hosts North Chicago Feb. 14.

Mundelein gave Warren a scare for three quarters and held a two-point lead when Kyle Kessel hit an outside jumper with 2:52 left.

But the Mustangs went silent, and Ben Bongratz then took over. The Warren senior scored six straight points to allow Warren to pull away as Mundelein was held to one shot.

Bongratz finished with 25 points, all in the second half.

"We started to play a lot better on defense and we got the ball inside," Warren Coach Darrel Bader said. "I was pleased with the way we played in the second half."

The game marked the third start for Justin Hanlin, who had 13 points and led Warren with nine rebounds.

"I thought they were ripe for the picking. But they're a good club and we got caught shorthanded sometimes," Mundelein Coach Dennis Kessel said.

The key shot was an unlikely off-balanced three-point shot (debateable from the Mundelein point-of-view) by Shelton. That turned a four-point lead to seven after three quarters. The lead grew to 21 before the subs finished the game.

The winner for the most-exciting weekend award has to go to Libertyville. The Wildcats split the thrillers, beating Zion-Benton 52-49 in double overtime but losing to Lake Forest 61-59 on a buzzer beater.

The Wildcats (9-12, 5-7) topped Fenton as Matt Sriver tallied seven of his 16 points in the second overtime. Sriver had 21 points in the losing effort against the Scouts.

There were no surprises in the seedings this year for the Waukegan regional. There was good news for Grayslake, which probably won't have to play Stevenson, as it did last year. That honor could go to Grant, the 16th seed. Stevenson (19-1) is tops, followed by: Highland Park (18-3), Warren (16-4) Carmel (15-7), Waukegan (11-10), Deerfield (10-10), Mundelein (10-10), Lake Forest (9-12), Libertyville (9-12), Round Lake (11-10), Lake Zurich (11-11), Antioch (8-12), Zion-Benton (8-13), North Chicago (5-15), Grayslake (8-13) and Grant (6-16).

Panthers advance 7, salvage NWSC share

Lakeland Newspapers

Round Lake's wrestlers didn't make the cut for the team portion of the state tournament at last Saturday's Antioch regional, but the Panthers did cop a share of their conference's title after all.

Round Lake's three champs were Ray Deatherage (112), John Keaskowski (130) and Rusty Nofsinger (140).

Also advancing were Mike Kukla (third at 103), Justin Zdeb (third at 125), Gary Bailey (second at 135) and Luke Tesch (second at 171).

Waukegan took the team title with 174.5 points, while Antioch (150.5) was second. Round Lake (122.5) and Grayslake (87) were third and fourth.

Round Lake did grab a share of its third straight Northwest Suburban Conference title after the league meet in Woodstock Jan. 31.

The Panthers were at first declared the winners of the meet, but when scoring errors were discovered, Johnsbury was named the tourney champ.

Round Lake, however, was undefeated in NWSC dual meets, which entitled them to share the title with Johnsbury.

"We won the dual meets, and Johnsbury won the tourney," Round Lake coach Bob Curran said. "The only way we could have lost the title is if we placed third in the conference tourney — then we wouldn't have won it."

Wrestler, coach to tell views on girls wrestling

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When Libertyville wrestler Maragret LeGates appears on the talk show hosted by Maury Povich, not all on the panel will be of the same view.

For a Warren Twp. High School wrestling coach and wrestler will be offering other views about 15-year-old girls competing on mats. Those involved will be flown to New York this weekend for the show's taping.

"I don't think girls should wrestle. It's always been a sport specifically for guys," Jason Aaron said.

Aaron, age 18, will be on the show with Warren High Coach Mark Tiffany. Aaron wrestled at 145 and 152 pounds for Warren this year.

"I don't think a guy could go 100 percent against a girl. We're brought up to be nice to girls, but in wrestling to show no mercy," Aaron, a Gurnee resident, said.

Aaron has been wrestling for six years.

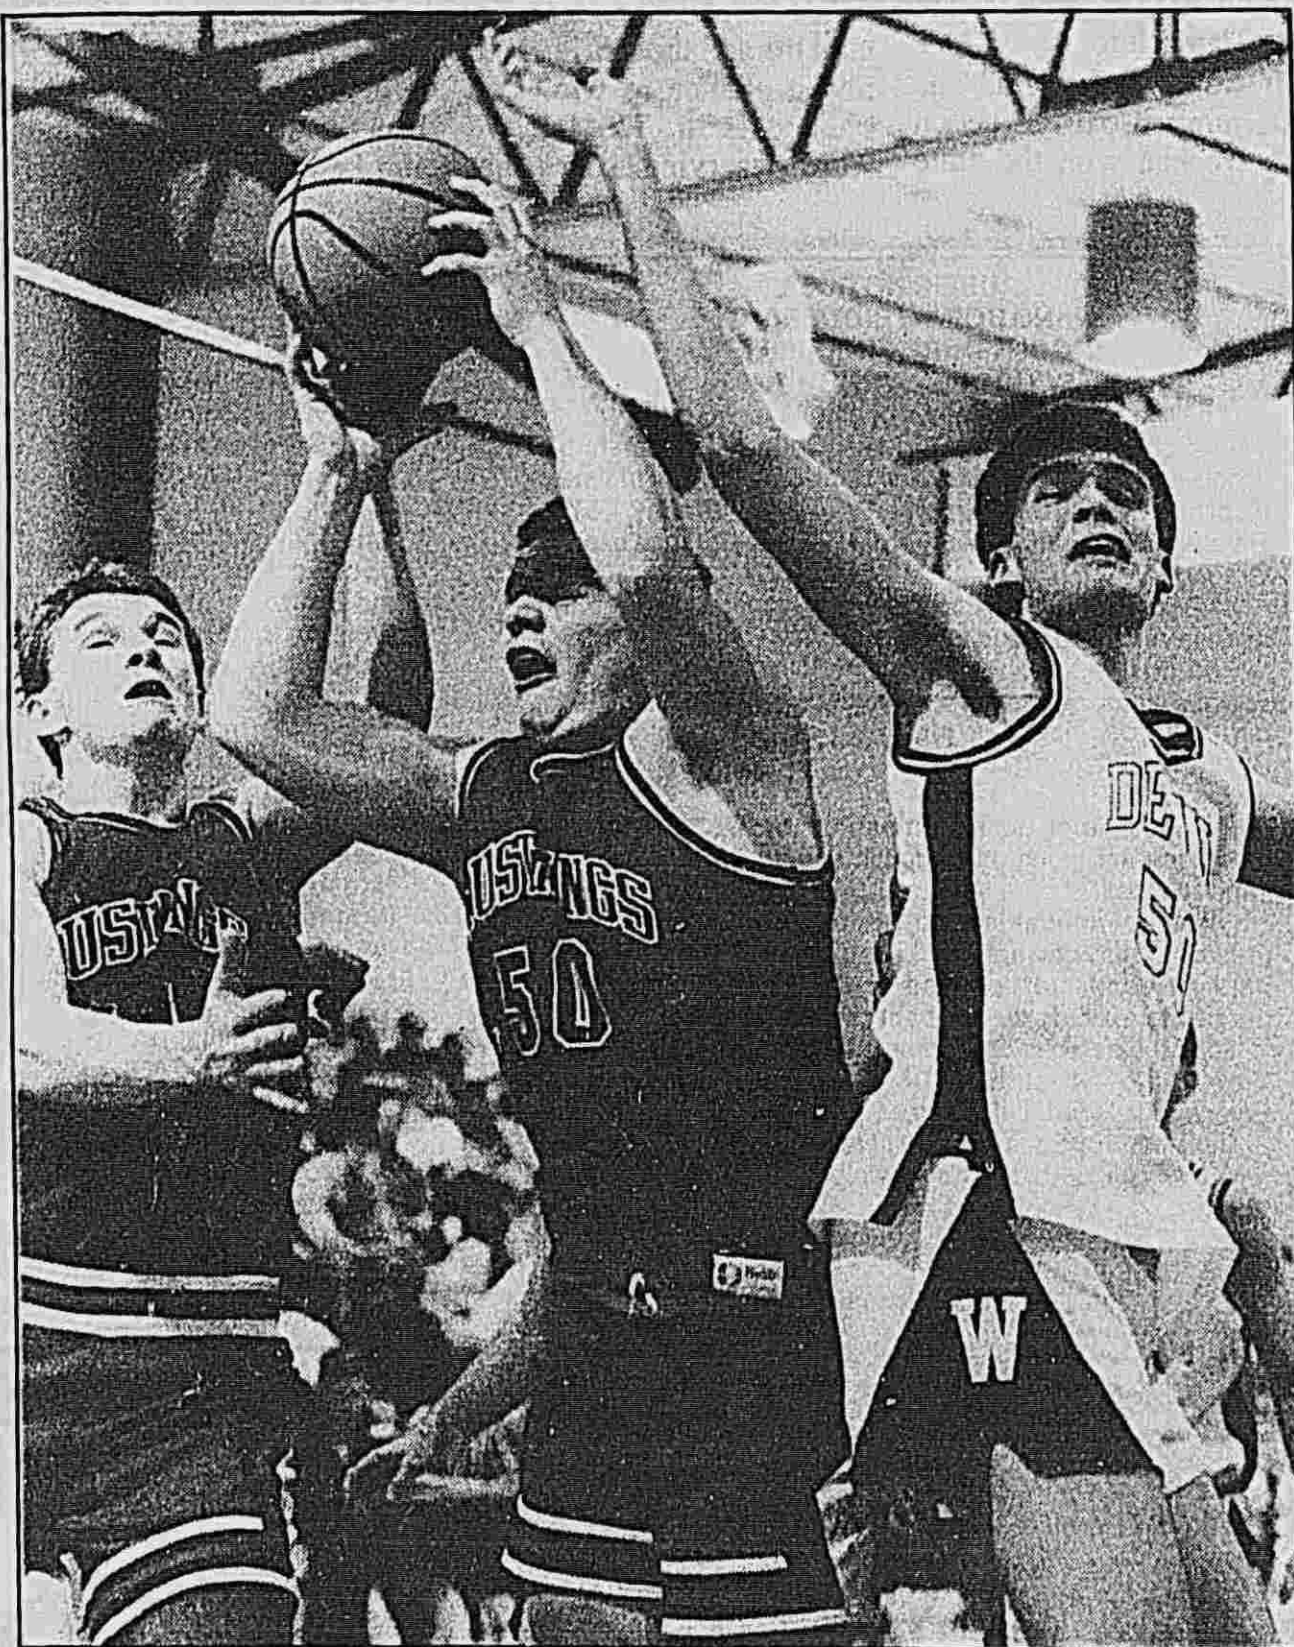

"The show asked for someone who felt it would not be in the good. There seems to be a lot of confusion as to how to handle it," Tiffany said.

"My point is not against Maragret, but if girls should be able to wrestle competitively against guys at that age level," Tiffany, a life fitness teacher at Warren, and former state wrestling champ, said.

Warren did not wrestle LeGates in a conference dual meet but did in a Waukegan tournament. Tiffany explained junior varsity meets are considered exhibitions.

LeGates wrestles at 103 pounds and beat a Carmel wrestler this year.

Rebound battle

Mundelein's Rob Brua (50) seems to have the upper hand in this rebound battle. Teammate Cory Kirking tries to lend a hand against Warren's Ben Bongratz. Bongratz scored 25 points as Warren won 72-55. - Photo by Joe Shuman.

Gymnasts set for sectionals

Carmel will continue its quest for a state team title, while several area individuals will try to advance to state during the sectional at Stevenson Thursday, Feb. 13.

Corsair coach Norbert Bendixen said his squad will get one of its toughest tests yet in a field that includes teams from Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Rolling Meadows and New Trier.

Still, the could prevail, Bendixen said. "It's very well possible. The scores are there and our performances are up. Obviously, all the talk in the world doesn't matter until you perform."

Three Carmel gymnasts qualified for the sectional all-around: Eme Cole, Sarah Mikrut and Jaime Wegener. Other Carmel qualifiers include Jenny Logue and Bea Selz.

Host Stevenson will send Elana Patt and Amy Citron into the competition, while Sara Schieffer and Taryn Mantucca will represent Libertyville.

PERFECT 10s

by Greg Miller

Jenny Snell, who was second in the all-around at the Deerfield regional, will be Mundelein's lone representative.

Antioch's Jenny Allen, Jessica Kane and Brandi Houle advanced to the Schaumburg sectional. Allen third on the vault and bars and fifth in the all-around, while Kane and Houle made the cut as at-large entries.

Corsairs look for home win

Paced by two strong games from senior point guard Chris Mohr, Carmel's boys basketball team completed a three-game road win streak with two victories last week.

The Corsairs (15-7, 7-3 in the East Suburban Catholic Conference), notched a 65-49 win over St. Viator in league play then held on for a 48-47 win over Loyola. Carmel returns to Mundelein for a Feb. 14 game against Joliet Catholic.

Mohr scored 25 points, including a three-pointer, against St. Viator, then had 16 against Loyola.

"Chris had a good weekend because he is passing the ball well and working hard on defense," Carmel Coach Scott Rosberg said.

The Corsairs used an 11-0 run against Loyola at the end of the third to pull away. Mohr, who is averaging 13 points a game, had one of his five three-pointers in the spree. Mohr hit four three-pointers in that game.

"We're doing OK, but we will have to do better if we're going to have any post-season success," Rosberg said.

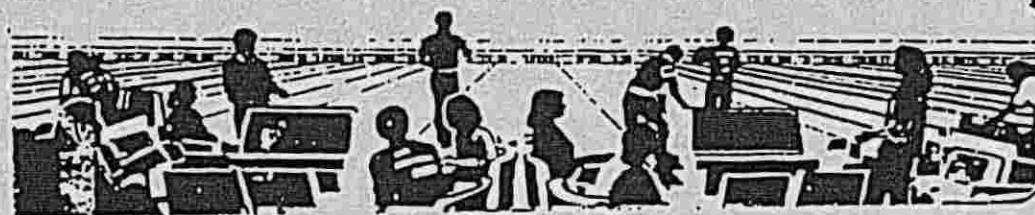

The Corsairs were without Dan Devito, out to Feb. 21 with an ankle injury.

Columnist learns inside-outs of Gumby suit wear

Working on rescue skills

Two firemen glide along the ice at Gowe Beach in Gurnee. Firemen were simulating ice water rescue during county wide course. Some 34 firemen participated in Lake County Ice Rescue team's course.

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

I can think of more relaxing things to do on a Sunday afternoon, early in February.

Watching one of the 16 episode's of "The Andy Griffith Show" shown on SuperBowl Sunday comes to mind. Or watching the NBA become the NDA — No Defense Allowed — for the basketball league's all-star game and Magic Johnson's great show. Or perhaps taking in a movie.

Crawling on the icy waters off Gowe Beach in Gurnee normally doesn't make the Top 10. Yet, with some reassuring from friends of various fire departments in Lake County, there I was, in a triangle-shaped cut of water in the ice in a bulky Gumby suit.

"All the bodies of water with the lakes and streams we have in Lake County, and with many of them in near-drowning temperatures (below 70 degrees) most of the year, that's why dive rescue is so important," Steve Orusa of the Gurnee Fire Dept. said.

Orusa will be training members of the Gurnee Fire Dept. on water rescue techniques, using both the Gumby suits and an ice water rescue suit. Some have fins. He explained the Gumby suit is an encapsulating device. "They're baggy; that's what gives it the bouyancy," he said.

Tim Tanner served as divemaster for the exercise.

"I was pleased with the job done by the training officers. It will be a real benefit to all who participated," Gurnee Fire Chief Tim McGrath said.

When there is a drowning or water rescue situation, the resources of all county departments are called upon. Firefighters were represented by such departments as Antioch, Waukegan, Fox Lake, Wauconda, Spring Grove, Winthrop Harbor and Zion. The Gurnee Park Dist. gave its blessing for the use of the big pond behind Warren Twp. High School. In

'How cold is it?'

Actually, one does not feel the cold of icy water in Gowe Beach when wearing a fire department Gumby suit. Lakeland Newspapers editor Steve Peterson found out first-hand what it is like as he and Ken Cashmore of Waukegan Fire Dept. simulated a rescue. - Photo by Bob Hoover, Wauconda Fire Dept.

April, the Lake County Dive Rescue team will be working on a public safety suba diving course.

"It's designed so one size fits all," Dave Harmon, a paid-on-call member of the Gurnee Fire Dept., said. Harmon said he felt comfortable in the suit. That includes six-foot-three inch firemen and five-foot-seven inch reporter.

In addition to being certified as an ice rescue specialist, the day meant some fun competition. The 34 firefighters split up into teams, seeing who could be the first to complete the 150-foot crawl out to the ice hole, rescue a "victim" and bring the victim back to shore quickly.

The winning time was 43 seconds plus, completed by Mike Streid and Alex Dimitrovich of Zion, Dan Wright of Waukegan, John Popel of Spring Grove, Eave Waldeck of Winthrop Harbor and Jeff Van Patten of Antioch.

As for your reporter—(would be) fireman, the crawling on all fours became easier as the 150 feet of ice got closer to the water hole. I had to block out my long—standing fear of water though, when Orusa said to spin around and go in the water. The feeling was surprisingly safe inside the suit. I couldn't crawl back to shore then, (and face the firefighters at the next drill or burndown) so, with all the experts around, I felt I was in pretty good hands.

Ken Cashmore of Waukegan Fire Dept. carefully attached a device which would eventually push me out of the water, reassuring your scribe he would not sink. A couple of waves to Bill Hoover of the Wauconda Fire Dept., who was manning the camera, and your's truly was gliding along the ice, even managing another wave or two, as shore neared.

Next year, though, I think Sundays we'll stick with TV re-runs.

The returns are in. From high school cheerleaders to school board members to the staff at village hall, all liked the new look sported in the Jan. 31 editions of "Lakeland". Don't forget, you too, can gain a new image. Call Lakeland at (708) 223-8161 for the details.

United Way installs officers, board members

The United Way of Lake County installed its new Executive Committee and Board of Directors at the annual business meeting Jan. 16 at the Country Squire.

After nominations were made and passed, Teresa Hall Bartels, vice-president of Manpower Temporary Services and United Way of Lake County Chairman of the Board, introduced the 1992 Executive Committee and Board of Directors. Newly elected officers are: Vice-Chairman of Administration is Donald M. Peterson, The Benefit Trust Life Companies; Vice-Chairman of Allocations is Gary Gardner, Baxter Healthcare Corp.; Vice-Chairman of Campaign is Stephen Smurthwaite, Abbott Laboratories; Vice-Chairman of Marketing is Ken Jackson, IBM Corp.; Vice-Chairman of Planning is Emmett L. Moore, Sr. Allstate Insurance Co.; Vice-Chairman of Volunteer Leadership Development is Sybil Yastrow; and Chief Professional Officer/Secretary is Elizabeth Jan Edgar, United Way of Lake County.

Additional Executive Committee members are Neal Anderson of the Chicago Bears, Publicity Chairman and Kenneth W. Farmer of Abbott Laboratories, Immediate Past Chairman. At-large members are: Linda Hess, Lake County Clerk; RADM James W. Partington, Great Lakes Naval Training Center; and Shelia Melton.

Bartels and Jackson were elected to serve a second term on the Board of Directors along with the following individuals: C. Richard Austin, IMC Fertilizer, Inc.; Ron Crawford, Commonwealth Edison; Ken Haas, Underwriters Laboratories; Timothy O'Leary, Country Estate Developers; Elise Potenz, Potenz Corp.; and Dan Struble, Abbott Laboratories. Individuals elected to serve a first term on the Board are: Arthur Collins, Jr., Abbott Laboratories; M. Blake Ingle, IMCERA, Inc.;

Barbara LaPiana, Village of Lincolnshire; Eve B. Lee, Eve B. Lee and Assoc.; Randy Murphy, County of Lake; John B. Scott, Kemper Life Insurance Co.; and Thomas J. Schwartz, First Midwest Bank, N.A.

Community services volunteers were also recognized at the meeting. Through its annual campaign and its volunteer support, the United Way of Lake County is able to support 45 agencies offering 99 programs to over three Lake County residents. For more information about United Way of Lake County or local volunteer opportunities, call the United Way office at (708)816-0063.

Katie Rose,
To a very special little lady.
We love you.
Mommy & Daddy & Cassie
too.

Nancy,
Only you!
All my love, always & forever.
Bill

Happy Valentine's Day
to the most important people in my life—my parents!
You are the Best!
XO XO XO XO
You are loved and appreciated so much more than you'll ever know!

♥ Love
Leticia

JOE

Even though you're too cool for Valentine's, Hope you are still my Valentine anyway!

Happy Valentine's Day Sweetheart!
Love,
Hubby

BILLY AND PAULIE

We've gone ONE-ON-TWO, you both and I—
Had a few TOUCHDOWNS along the way.
But you're still my ALL-STAR favorite guys
And before I WIND-UP, I just want to say You're both NUMBER ONE this
VALENTINE'S DAY!
All My Love, Vanilla Attila

*This valentine entitles you both the pleasure of taking me out for an evening of fine dining.

Buick,

Wishing my Valentine a special day! Are you still my Valentine or has someone else got your heart?

Keith (Pork Chop) and the Five Little Pork Chops,
You guys are the greatest! You give me so much love and hope and happiness everyday. My life would be so empty without you. I thank God every day for keeping us all together.
I love you all!
Tina
(Middle-Age Mom)

To Sue B, Thanks for the Wild Weekend!
Happy
Valentine's Day
Me

Honey,

I know things are really rough around here but still want you to know I still love you.
Me

Does this get me

Bob,

Even through hectic times, you're still my Valentine, Love,
JoAnn

To my friend, my lover, my sweetheart,
my husband
Happy Valentine's Day
I love you!
Your wife

Breezy — Isuzu Weetz.

We love you & miss you very much.
Happy Valentine's Day
Love, Dad & Mom II

Happy
Valentine's Day, Baby!

All my love,
Kate

MDM—God speed your love to me —
feels so right — you are my everyday — love you so.

Denis,

To count the reasons that I love you would be too many to make a list,
So I'll say the words "I love you" to let you know that you're the best!
Happy
Valentine's Day!
Sue

Happiest of all Valentine's Days to my special family
I love you all
Love,
Shir

Donny,
Our Little Sportsman.
Happy
V-Day!
Love
Mom & Dad

Pferdspringer,

The topiary tree wilted,
the catnip is dead,
the pizza bones are moldy and Stanze sleeps on the bed, Elvis is bummed,
another day out and the Norton and Luvie are playing with their "mouse"
The animals all, they love their mom, and Dad does too, cause you're number one.

I wanted my Valentine to rhyme
so I sat down to pass some time.
Writing a little bit here and there,
but not really getting anywhere
But you'll never know that this is for you unless I leave you a little clue
To my man, Old Styled, Orange and Blue
I only love you, (and Jessi & Jaci too!)

A year of fun
A year of changing
A year of helping
A year of caring
A wish for more years to share—
Happy
Valentine's Day
Michael
